Beret Case Began, Ends In Mystery

Charges Dropped By Army

CIA Won't Allow Agents To Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unexplained refusal by the U.S. spy agency to let its agents testify has put a sudden end to the controversial Green Berets murder trial.

Charges against the Green Berets—accused of killing a South Vietnamese double agent—were dropped swiftly Monday after the Army got word of the Central Intelligence Agency decision to avoid forthcoming trials.

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor, who less than two weeks ago said he would not yield to congressional pressure to halt courts martial of six Berets, said the CIA's action meant the defendants could not get a fair trial.

NEW ASSIGNMENTS
"Accordingly, I have directed today that all charges be dismissed immediately," Resor said in a four-paragraph statement from the Pentagon. "The men will be assigned to duties outside Vietnam."

Resor said he was informed that the CIA, "though not directly involved in the alleged incident," had determined it would not be "in the national interest" to let its people testify.

Although there was no elaboration, presumably the secret agency felt its hush-hush activities in South Vietnam might be compromised even though the Army had planned to conduct at least part of the trials behind closed doors.

There were hints the CIA felt civilian lawyers hired to defend the Green Berets might talk to the press about classified spy operations in Vietnam during or after scheduled trials.

"You can hold a court martial behind closed doors, but that doesn't mean you can insure secrecy with all the people involved in the proceedings," one officer commented.

FAVORABLE COMMENT

Though the Army's move means much of the case may forever remain obscure, the action was looked on favorably by a number of government officials.

—Members of Congress who numbered the accused Green Berets among their constituents were pleased, and the House cheered at the announcement Monday. Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., both issued statements, with Thurmond saying he "was confident the Nixon administration would not prosecute these men."

But some House members echoed the feelings of Rep. Clark. (See back page, sec. 1, col. 5)

ADC Dad Is Ordered To Pay Up

A Benton Harbor father of six children receiving Aid to Dependent Children grants was ordered Monday in Berrien circuit court to begin paying off a $746 arrearage at $6 a week.

Judge Chester J. Byrns also held Jessie Moore in contempt of court, placed him on a year's probation to Berrien Friend of the Court John Schoenhals and ordered him to continue weekly child support of $54.

Moore is separated from his wife and children, according to Schoenhals.

Children Wait In Car; Mother Arrested In Bar

Benton township police arrested a mother last night at Sax tavern, Millburg, after a complaint was made that she had left her three small children in the car for about eight hours, from 2 to 10 p.m.

The mother, Sandra Lee Bailey, 28, of Route 2, St. Joseph, was charged with drunk and disorderly. A companion, Wanda Barton, 50, of 428 1/2 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, was also arrested on the same charge.

Police said they were contacted by a woman who noticed the children in the car. The woman said the children appeared cold and hungry. She said she gave them a hamburger and candy.

The children were turned over to the father, William Bailey, 2811 South Pipestone road, Sodus. Police said the Berrien juvenile office would be contacted.

Protestors At U-M Try New Attack

Set Negotiation Deadline After Boycott Flops

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Leaders of a protest movement at the University of Michigan voted Monday night to end their call for a class boycott and instead decided to give the school's regents one week to open negotiations on a plan for student control of a university bookstore.

The boycott Monday attracted little student support. A university spokesman reported class attendance only slightly below normal Monday levels.

About 450 students met on a campus plaza for an hour and discussed plans to establish a united front on the bookstore issue.

Over 100 protesters, almost all of them students, were arrested last Friday during an occupation of a university office building. The demonstration was called in support of demands that a recently authorized bookstore be run by a student-faculty committee rather than a university administrator.

NEW PLAN
The student bookstore steering committee has proposed a new plan which calls for the faculty members and one administrator. The store would be funded partially by a tax on students.

Student leaders said they would meet again next Monday to consider a resumption of the strike or other action if the regents do not enter into negotiations by then.

While the students met, university President Robben W. Fleming delivered his formal "state of the university" address at a nearby lecture hall. He received a standing ovation from more than 900 faculty and staff members when he praised students' decision not to resist police during the demonstration Friday.

"Though we disagree with students," Fleming said, "we are not at war with them."

Arraignments were completed Monday for the 107 persons arrested Friday. All were charged with contention and disruption, a misdemeanor carrying a maximum sentence of a $100 fine, 90 days in jail, or both.

JOAN TUNNEY WILKINSON

Tunney's Daughter Is Missing

Last Seen In Bergen, Norway

BOSTON (AP) — The only daughter of former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, Joan Tunney Wilkinson, is missing in Europe, a family spokesman said Monday night.

Mrs. Wilkinson, 30, who was on vacation, was last seen in Bergen, Norway, where she was reported missing August 28, the spokesman said.

The family was traveling with their daughters, Alexandra, 5, and Erin, 3. The children are now with their father, a Milwaukee, Wis., realtor.

The former champion recently underwent major surgery at New England Baptist Hospital in Boston, where he is recuperating.

Tunney's son, Gene Jr., is in Europe assisting in the search for Mrs. Wilkinson. Another son, John, is a U.S. representative from California.

Upton Will Head New State Board

Comprehensive Mental Health Plan Is Sought

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has appointed a Mental Health Program and Statute Review Commission, with David Upton, of the advisory council to the Mental Health Department, as chairman.

Milliken said the commission, in cooperation with the Legislative Council, will seek to develop a single and comprehensive proposal for mental health programs for presentation to the Legislature by June, 1970.

A major objective, Milliken said, will be to "develop laws to provide improved access to mental health treatment and the improved distribution of mental health services for all of Michigan residents."

Members of the commission, Milliken said, will include 18 mental health, medical judicial and related organizational representatives.

Others named to the commission were:

Dr. David B. Ruskin, president of the Michigan Society of Neurology and Psychiatry; Dr. Benjamin Jeffries, Michigan State Medical Society; Dr. Dorothy E. Carnegie Shillinglow, Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons; Judge Ira G. Kaufman, Wayne Probate Court; Judge Donald Reising, Ingham County Circuit Court; Judge Geraldine Ford, Detroit Records Court; Prof. William Pierce, University of Michigan Law School; William Peters, Michigan Society for Mental Health; George T. Asks Senate To Approve Reform Bill

Lists Specific Requirements For Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon endorsed today the House-passed electoral reform bill calling for direct election of the president and urged the Senate to adopt the measure.

The House has approved a proposed constitutional amendment abolishing the Electoral College and giving the presidency to the candidate receiving the largest popular vote. If no candidate gets 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff would be held.

If the amendment passed the Senate, it would go to the states for ratification.

Nixon said he had committed his administration in February to support any reform of the electoral system that would remove its most negative features.

THREE REFORMS

"I said I would support any amendment approved by Congress that would make three specific reforms in the current system," the President said, "one, eliminate the problem of the 'faceless elector,' two, make a 40 per cent margin adequate for victory, and three, reform the system so that the electoral outcome more closely reflects the popular outcome."

The President's statement was distributed by press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

The President said since the House "has overwhelmingly supported the direct election approach," it is clear that unless the Senate follows its lead "all opportunity for reform will be lost this year and possibly for years to come."

Nixon said he knew that many senators might prefer a different method than election by a simple, popular vote margin but

NEED URGENT

"I believe that contrary views are now a luxury—that the need for electoral reform is urgent and should be our controlling consideration."

Nixon, while receiving a large majority of the electoral votes in the 1968 election, did not get half of the popular vote.

In February Nixon supported a plan under which the electoral vote of a state would be distributed among the candidates for president in proportion to the popular vote cast.

He said at that time that he was "not wedded to the details of this plan or any other specific plan."

HAS BEST CHANCE

In his statement today Nixon said he had thought that plan would have the best chance of being approved by Congress and by the three-fourths of the states whose vote is necessary to amend the Constitution.

But he said the vote of the House has added an entirely new factor "to be considered if we are to have electoral reform with all necessary speed."

"Accordingly, because the ultimate goal of electoral reform must prevail over differences as to how best to achieve that goal, I endorse the direct election approach and urge the Senate also to adopt it," the President said.

Over Board On Consumerism

Consumer protection has become a prime issue of our times. The phrase alone has irresistible political appeal when the impact of the declining value of the dollar makes itself felt in higher prices, poorer service and deterioration in product quality.

A recent issue of U.S. News and World Report contains an interview with Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, Special Assistant to President Nixon for Consumer Affairs. In the interview, Mrs. Knauer explains the manner in which her office responds to consumer complaints by seeking corrections from manufacturers, distributors or retailers on a voluntary basis. She has found that in many instances industry is anxious to cooperate knowing that failure to do so may lead to Congressional action, more laws and more regulations.

However, Mrs. Knauer and her activities as liaison between the President and consumers are but part of the consumer protection story. Consumers as a group, are being wooed by politicians as never before. Each year in this decade, proposals to set up a Cabinet level Department of Consumer Affairs have been submitted in Congress. Advocates of such a department argue that it is necessary to oversee and police the hundreds of consumer related programs that currently are administered by more than 30 federal agencies. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has issued an analysis of current legislation to establish a Department of Consumer Affairs.

The legislation now under consideration would vest unprecedented powers in the new Department. It would, in the words of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce release, "... go far beyond mere coordination or efficient administration.... It would become a focal point in government for handling consumer complaints, a central agency which not only dealt with such complaints, but represented the interests of consumers of the United States in proceedings before courts and regulatory agencies."

Under its authority to disseminate information, the Department would conduct annually "a National Consumers conference to be attended by experts on consumer education and by representatives of organizations engaged in fostering and protecting the interests of consumers."

Businessmen fear these national conferences would become merely a sounding board for antibusiness sentiments. They fear even more the virtually unlimited authority that would be placed in the Department of Consumer Affairs under present proposals to conduct investigations and surveys of the performance of individual companies; the findings of which would be published by the Department.

Supporters of the Consumer Affairs Department would expect it to play a part in lowering transportation, utility and communications rates and to exercise supervisory power over television advertising, programming and to actually control advertising.

In spite of its political appeal, opposition to the creation of such a Department in the federal government is formidable. A high Budget Bureau official has pointed out that, "Under existing law, all federal agencies are responsible for protecting the public interest, not the particular interests of special groups.... The general welfare of the people of the United States... must be considered by all federal agencies in performing their statutory responsibilities." To many, the idea of setting up a department of government to plead the case for a special group is repugnant and is alien to the concept of the public interest.

A Department of Consumer Affairs through its officially published judgments and evaluations, backed by the prestige of government, could regulate and control business, substituting its views for the natural forces of consumer choice and free competition in the marketplace. "In fact," the Chamber concludes, "many people believe a Department of Consumer Affairs would have available the technique and tools to go far in undermining the... economy."

Warning By Scientists

For years, eminent scientists and humanists have expressed concern about the quality of life being fashioned in an age which becomes increasingly technically oriented. Ever since the nuclear age dawned with its potential for both good and evil, thinking men have concerned themselves with questions about the heavy emphasis on technology.

They are disturbed about the heavy concentration in industrial engineering and research of projects promoted directly or indirectly by government, projects which primarily are not designed to promote a better quality of life, but to further government's goals in space, defense or some related activity.

Without detracting in any way from the numerous beneficial by-products of such research, it must be noted that they are mere by-products of another endeavor. Perhaps it is a matter of priorities, yet the case of technology seems to go much deeper than that.

Consider, for example, what might be the consequences to human life if a concerted effort by industry, science and government along the scale of that assembled for the U. S. space program could be put together with the object of eliminating some of the major diseases, such as cancer or heart disease, which afflict humans.

After a year of study, the National Academy of Sciences has proposed to the House Committee on Science and Astronautics the establishment of a federal agency to warn the public about the perils of uncontrolled technology.

The study was urged by the House committee to find some way of guarding against damage to society by the "ill considered exploitation of technology." Since government itself so largely controls the motivation behind technological expansion, perhaps it is inevitable that such a body would have to be an agency of government. Unless a way could be found to make it singularly independent from the politics of bureaucracy, the scientific community might be a better harbor for such a movement.

At least the talk about a need for such a leveling force has produced a first step of prestigious note toward its creation.

Still In Effect

The United Nations has moved 259 of its people into two buildings elsewhere in New York City. This brings to 12 the number of buildings it is now using, and to $14 million the annual rent bill. It has 5,213 employees.

This goes to show that the work force will expand to exceed the space, but the real problem is said to be almost equally Parkinsonian. In the UN when a man moves up to the proper level he gets a bigger office with one window.

At the next step he gets two windows. Then three. Once the necessary windows have been supplied, there isn't much space left for the people who file the papers and write the speeches.

The plan now is to build a new building to accommodate the overflow, at a cost of $50 million. Guess who will pay for it?

Editor,
The Herald-Press:

DON'T EXPECT MIRACLES

It appears to me that too many citizens are expecting too much from an Administration that has been in harness but a few months. Were we to list all the problems challenging the federal and the state governments, and considered priorities the total would be fantastic.

Under present circumstances and conditions we should all be grateful that a break-through in many directions is beginning to show results, even though minute. Putting ourselves in the White House we would soon learn that the office of President of the United States is not merely one of national leadership but a job shouldering an international burden since we are involved in every angle on earth and in space as well.

Pointing an accusing finger at the Administration, whether it be Democratic or Republican, casting aspersions and mixing personalities with political business, taking every advantage to down-grade the President, Congress, Governors and legislatures has never, or will it ever solve any problems. Only when the minority lends support to the good qualities of the latter will we be in a position to meet the many challenges of the day and appreciate the great potential of the Administrations to come.

We all despise those losers in any game. So it goes with politics. Millions are disappointed in every election because their party lost. Then is the time for the loser to roll up his sleeves and get on the ball to make his party power felt as a minority group with cooperative power. Two parties, working together could make this country great in every way.

We rate high in the world's goods and its labor, but we present a sorry spectacle to millions in foreign nations when we can't solve our own internal affairs. These events cannot be settled on the roof of the White House or in the back yard of the Capitol.

It is true that we all would like to have our men out of Vietnam now, but no Senator should berate the President because the latter does not see eye to eye with the former. Mr. Nixon is our President. He's not asleep at the switch. He knows exactly what he is doing. With a number of years behind him in the White House under a great President, his experience should be full of credits and free of demerits.

The same can be said of Mr. Humphrey and all others who have been so close to the gigantic puzzles that beset us.

So, why not leave the Administration live long enough in power to get rolling? This is Mr. Nixon's day in Court. Let's leave him alone.

The game is not over until the last inning is finished. It would be a nice gesture for Senator Kennedy to walk up to the President and say, "I know the spot you are in. What can I do to help?"

It behooves us to do the best we can.

who care.

Let's be personal. Let's talk about your mother. Since dad's death, she has lived in her home alone. Lately you have noticed things she is neglecting, because physically, she is unable to carry on. You say, "Something has to be done. Ma can't live alone." You think, "My house is hardly large enough for our family. The kids bother her. What to do."

Your physician advises you to bring her to a nursing home. The first few days are very difficult. The realization that her home is being disposed of, her personal things accumulated in her lifetime are being taken out of the house; living in a strange place, all are disconcerting factors.

She becomes confused, her poor memory worsens, she is weak from improper diet. The habit of independence is with her. She gets up from her chair and falls. Luckily she was not injured! A repeat of this act might result in a broken hip.

Which is the humane thing to do? Allow her freedom or place a bed sheet around her and the chair as a reminder she must not try to get out without help? Restraints take time to put on and take off, but they require less time than broken bones. We have side rails on all beds as safety measures, also as reminders. Is this cruelty?

A few weeks have passed. Your mother is surrounded by smiling faces. Patients are friendly to her. Aids are helping her where needed. She is stronger because of proper diet; physical therapy is helping arthritis; and diversional activities are enabling her to do things she has never done.

She makes plaques, vases, even paints a picture. Her eyes prevent her reading, but she can listen to stories. She played volleyball yesterday; had fun but got very excited! Today, she joined a song fest and sang the old hymns she dearly loves.

Your mother is being given a tranquilizer, carefully adjusted by the doctor, and given by a nurse who reports any drowsiness to the doctor. This medication enables her to enjoy the warm friendly atmosphere of her new home rather than having to go to a state hospital. (A tranquilizer can make that difference in behavior!) If she is not getting proper sleep, a sedative may be ordered and given if necessary. We don't even keep narcotics in stock, so no danger of mother being given any!

I have something to say about the statement, "Patients die quicker."

Most of the patients who die were sent to us for nursing care we could administer to make their last days comfortable. We encourage their dear ones to be with them and we put forth every effort to make it as easy as possible for every one concerned.

Now that we have the facts do you not feel grateful for having nursing homes to help you solve some of your problems? Even if we do use restraints, tranquilizers and all those "horrible things" the paper article tells about?

Try And Stop Me

Just after Calvin Coolidge moved into the White House, a Treasury Department executive made a special trip there to personally deliver the new President's first pay check. Silent Cal pocketed the check without a word, but just as the Treasury man was leaving the room, managed an icy smile and a most sincere, "Come again!"

Boston is like no other city in America. Its hotels are different, too. When you're not allowed to go out of a certain door in most hostilities, you'll be warned by a preemptory sign reading, "No exit." In Boston's Ritz, however, the warning on such a door reads, "This is not an accredited egress door."

One early summer evening, an elderly guest asked a Ritz attendant, "Is the roof garden open for dancing yet?" "No, sir," was the respectful reply. "The roof is closed this evening." What he neglected to add was that the roof garden had been closed a good twenty-five years ago.

OVERHEARD:

Father welcoming his daughter's date for the evening: "She'll be right down. How about a couple of games of chess?"

Between games in a bowling tourney: "Next time she takes a plane to her mother's, I'm going to try to ticket her as a piece of luggage. That way, maybe they'll lose her!"

DR. COLEMAN

..And Speaking Of Your Health

A middle-aged woman, on whom I had operated, was brought to my office for her first postoperative visit. I had known this family for a long time and had, in fact, been involved with many facets of their lives. She was accompanied by her husband and a 21-year-old son.

I remembered the boy rather well because I had written a letter of recommendation for him to a local university. I recalled, too, that it was a disappointment to me that he had dropped out of school after six months.

During a casual discussion, my eyes lit on his hand and it gave me a sick feeling when I realized that the closed-off veins on the top meant heroin addiction. Almost in disbelief I told him my suspicions while we were alone, and learned that he had been "shooting heroin" into the veins for two years.

This was happening to him at the age of 20 and already he was spending $42.00 a day to sustain his habit. He got this money, as many addicts do, by lying, cheating, stealing, and even mugging. A pretty horrible picture for a young man brought up by a gentle middle-class family now unsuspectingly harboring this disaster within their home.

With his permission, I told his parents and saw their world suddenly collapse in absolute disbelief. I had to present the ghastliness of this catastrophe and told them the difficulties they would have to face.

When I suggested a particular doctor specializing in drug addiction, the young man said, "I think I can do it myself because I have been able to do it eight times before." This astonishing statement was made without his understanding that all of these eight attempts were failures, and that I wished he had been able to stop once.

It might interest all the youngsters who speak glibly about the non-addictive qualities of marijuana to know that this young man, like thousands of others, "began on pot, grass and weed."

When I asked him how he got hooked on heroin, he said, "We were sitting around smoking pot and one of the guys was shooting. He dared me to try it and I was trapped by heroin in ten days." This sad story needs to be pounded into the heads of the youngsters who think they know all the answers about marijuana but don't know that smoking it is smoking dynamite that can ruin their lives.

I am in despair about the cure of a dope addict because my experiences have been so disappointing. I have followed dope addicts in and out of hospitals, in and out of jails, and in and out of various groups who think that "their" way is the only way to cure an addict. I feel a deep sense of hopelessness for this young man, even though he promises and perhaps believes that he will break the habit.

I know I will seem partisan when I speak enthusiastically about Synanon because of the controversy that revolves around this organization. Yet the gratifying results I personally have known depended on the attitudes, teachings, and the facilities of Synanon. There is hope in some of the new drugs, too.

Synanon now is a way of life for its members. Those who can live within the restricted limits find inner peace and happiness and freedom from the shackles of addiction.

diamonds and your partner immediately knows the point-count range of your hand and the distribution in the major suits.

Consider this deal played by Flannery (South) in a regional championship. His two diamond bids was artificial and his partner (Paul Swanson, also of Pittsburgh) responded two notrump—an artificial bid requesting South to define his exact distribution in the minor suits.

The four diamond response indicated precisely 4-5-4-0 distribution. Learning that South was void in clubs, which was an exceptionally favorable development, North bid four notrump (Blackwood).

When South showed two aces by responding five hearts, North bid five notrump (again Blackwood), but this time asking for kings).

When South showed one king by responding five hearts, North had all the information he needed to undertake a grand slam. He knew that South had 4-5-4-0 distribution, the two red aces, and the king of spades—and that thirteen tricks was therefore absolutely certain.

From North's viewpoint, South turned out to have the perfect hand, but if South had had a less satisfactory hand (for example: ♠ KQ83 ♥ A7853 ♣ Q4 ♢ Q9), his response to North's forcing bids would have been entirely different and the final contract would have been a safe four hearts.

SJ Apartment Permit Nixed

Commission Responds To Opposing Petition

St. Joseph city commissioners last night considered two recommendations of the planning commission and decided to deny one and return the other for further study.

The commissioners turned down the request of contractor Lawrence Zuhl to build a four-unit apartment house at 904 Harrison street, St. Joseph. The planning commission voted last week to recommend the request provided the zoning board of appeals would grant an exception in Zuhl's case. The lot in question lacks almost 1,000 square feet of the 7,200 required for a four-unit apartment.

The commission's decision came after Edward Mattix of 823 Harrison street presented a petition with the signatures of 21 of his neighbors, expressing opposition to the apartment. Mattix said he spoke for the neighbors in saying that there is not adequate parking space and that such an apartment would not fit in with the other single-family and two-family dwellings in the neighborhood.

Commissioner C. A. Tobias proposed that Zuhl's request be denied in light of the apparent opposition. He was backed by the other two commissioners present, Mayor W. H. "Duke" Ehrenberg and Frank Smith.

CLINIC SOUGHT

In referring back to the planning commission a request to convert a residence at 1906 Langley avenue into a chiropractic clinic, the commission went along with the request of Phillip Brown, attorney for Edward Taylor.

Brown requested a hearing because, he said, his client believed he had not been able to get his message across to the planning commission last week. At that time, the commission voted to not approve the request for a special-use permit.

Brown said a petition had been circulated and 48 signatures gathered in support of the clinic. Off-street parking facilities will be provided for four or five cars, he said, with no more than three or four cars likely to be present at one time.

In other action, the commission tabled indefinitely the request of Airport Limousine Company Inc. for a taxicab license. City Attorney Arthur G. Preston Jr. said there is a question about licensing. If the firm intends to make pick-ups in both Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, and that is his understanding of its intent, it also must have a Benton Harbor license. To Preston's knowledge, no application had been made in Benton Harbor.

NOT GOOD AT FIELD
City Manager Leland Hill said a St. Joseph license would allow the firm, which operates an 11-passenger vehicle, to make pick-ups in St. Joseph, but would not allow it to make pick-ups at Ross field and other points in Benton Harbor.

Commissioners gave final approval to the paving of St. Joseph drive from Thayer drive to Niles avenue. City Attorney Preston reported that the four families who live on the south side of the street, and outside of which they have signed notes by which they agree to pay for the paving of the street in the same manner as the four families who live on the north side and inside the city — in 10 annual installments.

The action resulted after street residents appeared late in August to ask that the street be paved. Manager Hill said the work probably would begin toward the end of the week.

Hill read to the commission a letter from the State Department of Public Health in reply to the commission's request for information concerning the air pollution control program of the Auto Specialties plant in northern St. Joseph.

COLLECTOR ORDERED

The department reported that the company has ordered a fabric-type collector for its electric furnace melting operations. The cupolas, also used for metal melting at the foundry, continue as a source of air pollution, the letter stated, and are difficult and expensive to control. The health department, however, believes that the company will meet regulations by August, 1971.

Commissioner Tobias said the company is to be commended (See back page, sec. 1, col. 1)

Zollar Gives Education Proposal Passing Grade

Predicts Stormy Battle

State Senator Charles O. Zollar gave Gov. Milliken's educational reforms a passing grade but predicted a stormy legislative fight and said he will oppose its blank check features.

Zollar spoke to 50 Southwestern Michigan Traffic club members at Howard Johnson Motor lodge last night on legislative activities in general, but previewed the governor's program for schools in more specific terms.

The 22nd district state senator, chairman of the appropriations committee, was introduced by Paul Price of the Traffic club as a legislator who should be in Washington. Zollar said privately afterwards he has been getting a lot of pressure to run for the seat now held by Rep. Ed Hutchinson (R-Pennville).

Zollar said of Milliken's educational proposals: there are "many, many good points . . . It's a radical change in what we have known of our school system . . . And some (points) that will be very controversial." REVENUE PLANS

Milliken's plan calls for re-vamping the educational system in five areas. "Basically his whole plan is based on better service to the child," Zollar said.

The 63 intermediate districts would be reduced to no more than 15 regional districts. These districts would service all the K-12 programs in that region (bookkeeping, payroll, auditing) and operate special education and supervise vocational education. "There is no sense to put a computer in a county with (only) 2,000 children — you don't get the efficiency out of the high cost of the computer," Zollar said.

The governor would eliminate the state board of education. Said Zollar: "I have been publicly critical of what they have not done." Zollar said this change would have to be done by referendum because it's a change in the constitution. The superintendent of public instruction would be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate and thereby establishing a "direct line of authority and some responsibility," he said.

WOULD CONSOLIDATE
The approximate 630 local districts would be consolidated into about 300, with all districts covering kindergarten through high school. Zollar saw this as promoting efficiency. Each district would have a minimum of 2,000 school children, he said, but indicated it was one of the debatable items.

The inequitable financing system arising from variable end in industrial tax base will be reflected in a shift from the property tax to the income tax. He estimated the average operating millage would drop to (See back page, sec. 1, col. 6)

BH School Executives Receive Raises In Pay

Board Unanimous This Time

Raises ranging from $742 to $1,872 were granted administrators and certified supervisors by the Benton Harbor board of education.

Three resolutions on salaries were approved unanimously by the six board members present after the board couldn't agree on a similar measure last week. The salary schedules were adopted on recommendation of Supt. Mark Lewis. They are retroactive to July 1.

Teacher contracts were settled Sept. 2 — hikes were $500 at the bottom of the scale to $900 at the top of the masters degree scale.

Assistant Superintendents Robert Payne, personnel, and Raymond Srethoth, business, will receive $20,500 each for the 1969-70 school year. It represents a raise of $1,500 for Srethoth and $1,000 for Payne. Gene McFadden, assistant superintendent for community education, gets $17,300 up $1,300.

ASKS PARITY
McFadden has asked that his salary be placed on a parity with the other assistant superintendents and that community education coordinators be in the same range as elementary principals. The coordinators received raises, but the top coordinator's pay is about $1,400 less than the lowest salary for a principal. The coordinators are not classified as certified teachers.

Trinity Lutheran school, St. Joseph, recorded 401 pupils on Friday, annual enrollment day for Michigan schools. Last year at this time there was 417 enrolled.

By grades the enrollment is as follows: kindergarten 39; first 47; second 39; third 53; fourth 45; fifth 44; sixth 53; seventh 41 and eighth 40.

Likely To Take Effect By Friday

Package Passes Unanimously After Hour's Discussion

Benton Harbor's 17-and-under set and outside visitors of the same are heading into the first weekend under the city's new set of curfew rules.

The city commission last night approved the package unanimously and slated the effective date for the day following formal printing of the changes or additions in a legal advertisement. Publication should occur Wednesday or Thursday.

Under the changes, the younger set has until 11:30 p.m. each Friday and Saturday to be off the streets unless accompanied by a parent or legal guardian or unless enroute home from work. On Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, the deadline is 10:30 p.m.

Violators may be petitioned into juvenile court and, under the new package, parents may face a fine and or jail sentence for a second offense. The fines would range from $25 to $500 and the jail time up to 90 days.

WRITTEN NOTICE

Parents are to be notified of the first offense in written form. The penalties are to be printed on the reverse side.

The changes in time limits and the additions of the penalty clauses were contained in amendments to an existing curfew. The time limits had been 10 p.m. for weekdays and 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays under the former provision. The age limit had been 16.

Commission action on the new package came after proponents of stiffer deadlines, individuals questioning the provisions and commissioners reviewed it for an hour.

Harold Hansen, chairman of the West Central Neighborhood Organization (WCNO), called for a postponement until recommendations made by block and improvement clubs in the city could be studied more fully.

They were submitted to the commission sometime late last week.

DENIES 'WIDENING'

Hansen denied he or his organization were "widening the generation gap" as indicated in a headline last Tuesday in this newspaper.

Commissioner F. Joseph Flaugh, chairman of the commission's legislative committee which recommended adoption of the package, said Hansen had apparently not listened to his introductory remarks.

Flaugh said the committee concurred with the recommendations and would work toward meeting with any interested group to fully explain the changes.

"We are not rushing this," Flaugh stated. "In fact we've been dilly dallying around with it. Not one bit of the recommendations were ignored. But there comes a time when you have to make a decision."

Flaugh said adoption of the changes was a "big step" in the right direction. They could be changed as needed, he added.

OTHER POINTS

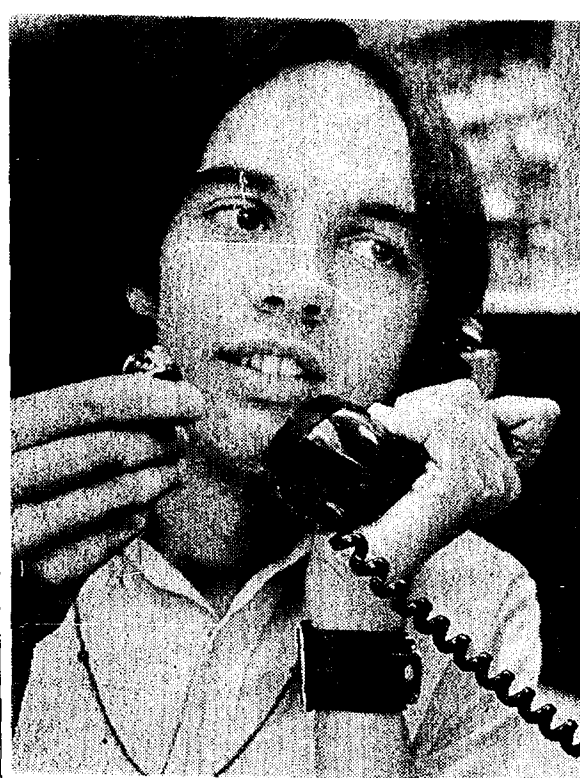

Included in the recommendations were: establish procedure for exceptions to curfew by teenagers attending a supervised function; meet with interested parent and teacher groups and businesses dealing with the teenagers to review; contact Benton township and St. Joseph township about taking similar actions; and encourage police to notify schools about the need of student identity cards.

Kenneth Malkin, who said he was a former Benton Harbor resident, called for enforcement of the existing code instead of adoption of the new package. Another speaker, Larry Munley of 301 Pleasant street, said more was needed than a curfew. More should be done for the youth, he said.

Commissioner Virgil May said the changes dealt with persons presumably under supervision and gave the parents as well as the city a new tool to use.

Metal Detector Finds Lost Ring

Heath Company Writer Turns Detective

A lost class ring will be returned to a high school senior in Utica, Mich., thanks to a metal detector, some sleuthing by a Heath Co. employee and the right direction from Michigan Bell.

Lowell Winans, a technical writer for Heath, said he was combing Warren Dunes State park Saturday with a metal detector when he turned up a 1970 class ring from a Stevenson high school. It contained initials of the owner, "YGD," and the manufacturer.

Winans drew some blanks, but with the help of understanding people at Michigan Bell, he got connected to the manufacturer and was referred to a sales representative in Michigan. The rest was comparatively easy.

PAYS FOR CALL
Yves G. Duclos, a student at Adlai Stevenson high school, Utica, will recover the ring he lost on an outing at Warren Dunes. "He said he would reimburse me for the telephone calls," said Winans.

SEEKING COMMITMENTS

Shopping Center Unit Gets Option Extension

Developers of the proposed $6.5 million shopping center plan for the old Benton Harbor market site will be given another 60-day extension on an informal option on the 33-acre parcel.

The city commission, meeting in executive sessions, informally approved the extension after spokesmen for the developers reported firm commitments from prospective major retail outlets were still being sought.

A 45-day extension had been granted to the developers in August when they said the commitments could be forthcoming any time.

The developers, all partners in the venture, are Benton Harbor Attorney Robert Small; Benton Harbor Real Estate Broker Thomas DeRosa; Ralph Bierbaum, Stanford, Conn.; and Jack Shenkman, Detroit.

Small, DeRosa, Bierbaum and Attorney Barry Yaker, Detroit, attended the session.

The commission in Sept. 1968, gave the developers and informal one-year option on the site for $5,000. A larger payment was to be made then toward the land's $500,682 selling price. The site is bounded by Britain, Eleventh-Twelfth, Market, Colfax, and Ninth streets.

Authority For Charge Requested

The Benton township police department has asked the Benton prosecutor's office for authorization to charge Kenneth G. Noack, owner of Kenny's Catering Service, with sale and consumption of beer in an unlicensed place.

Patrolman James Lester said the catering service, which serves meals at 1698 Britain avenue, has made beer available on the premises for customers without a liquor license.

Lester said he ate a meal and drank beer at the catering service Friday. He received the beer in a styrofoam cup and pitcher, he said. Lester said customers did not pay for the beer, but contributed money to a beer kitty.

Lafayette's Adult Night Is Thursday

Mrs. Mary Buesing, Principal of Lafayette school in the Benton Harbor system, has invited parents and interested citizens to attend a "Back to School Night" Thursday.

Two sessions of classes will be held in each classroom where teachers will explain the many facets of the curriculum. The first session will begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at 7:55 p.m. The repeat session will begin at 8:00 p.m. and close at 8:25 p.m. This will enable parents to visit the classes of each of their children.

Tours of the building will be conducted during the evening. Refreshments will be served after the 8:30 p.m. closing of the classrooms.

Snake (Copperhead?) Killed In Stevensville

Bob Fernau of 2580 Locust lane, Stevensville, has killed what he believes to be a copperhead, a poisonous snake rare in Michigan.

Fernau said his 6-year-old daughter Becky found the snake coiled up like a rattler near the mailbox at the end of their street.

After killing the reptile with a BB gun, Fernau checked it against a colored picture in an encyclopedia and determined it was a copperhead. The snake, with brownish orange markings and a wedge-shaped head, had fangs, Fernau said. The head was that of a snake of the pit viper family to which rattlesnakes belong. Copperheads normally inhabit the southeastern states.

After killing the snake, Fernau buried it.

$1,300 For Dystrophy Fund

EAST LANSING (AP) — Two Michigan State University students climbed wearily off their rockers Monday afternoon, sipped champagne, ate their first solid meal since last Wednesday and jointly claimed a new rocking chair record.

They rocked in separate chairs continuously from 4 p.m. Wednesday until 4 p.m. Monday for 120 consecutive hours. The stunt was an effort to collect funds for muscular dystrophy. They said about $1,300 was raised.

Phil Grant of Eau Claire, Mich., representing Phi Kappa Sigma social fraternity, and Hal Prentice of Flint, Mich., representing Phi Mu Alpha fraternity, claimed the record. Grant said it beats the former record of 104 hours which he said he set last May.

DOCTORS' ORDERS

The two went off their rockers on doctors' orders after an examination at the university hospital.

"We were exhausted, our blood count was low and we were freezing," Grant said. "We decided to get off together because we could have killed ourselves trying to beat each other."

"My back is aching," Grant admitted, "I have a sore throat and the weather has been freezing. Also, my temperature was about three degrees below normal."

He added there has been home adverse reaction about the competitors' missing class and concern about their health. More than a dozen fraternity and one coed entered the rock-a-thon Wednesday. All but four, including the coed, dropped out after the first night after temperatures reached near the freezing level.

The two finalists grimly continued rocking. They were hauled around the campus on trucks and also rocked on the sidelines through the MSU-Southern Methodist football game.

They fasted during the entire period, taking only liquids. "We just had such things as broth, water, milk and pop," Grant said.

DISAPPOINTED
Their first meal was cattered by coeds from the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, which also helped collect funds. Grant was shooting for $10,000 and admitted he was disappointed at the response.

"We have about $1,300 now," he reported, "and hope to hit $2,000. Meanwhile, we will be trying other ways to raise donations, such as sponsoring dances and other activities. I think the other fraternities let themselves down," he added.

After the hot meal, a long sleep was first on the agenda for the two rockers.

Grant first became interested in raising money for muscular dystrophy when he worked as a counselor at a summer camp for young people afflicted by the disease.

Stewart To Head State Committee

Benton Harbor City Manager Don C. Stewart has been named by Gov. William Milliken as chairman of the police services committee of the Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

It was one of six committees and four appointments to the commission announced in Lansing by the governor. The other committees are juvenile delinquency, administration of criminal justice, organized crime, prevention and community relations, and corrections.

The new appointees are Grand Rapids Mayor Chris J. Sonneveldt for a term expiring Nov. 27, 1970; Sterling Heights Police Chief Maurice D. Feltz for a term expiring Nov. 27, 1970; Noel Bufo, executive director of the Office of Highway Safety Planning, for a term expiring Nov. 27, 1971; and James C. Killogg, executive assistant to the governor, for a term expiring Nov. 27.

Sinclair Road Bills

EAU CLAIRE — The Pipestone township board last night spread delinquent tax monies from the months April through June of the years 1966, 1967 and 1968 to various school districts in the township.

The districts will receive the following amounts: Eureka, $9; Shanghai, $252; North Maple Grove, $353; IXL, $197; Eau Claire, $2,876; with the township share of $481; and special road assessment, $450.

All the rural school districts have been annexed to the Eau Claire system, but delinquent taxes must be paid to the individual districts for three years after annexation.

The board also agreed to pay the Berrien County Road commission $1,679 for maintenance work with the major amount for work on Sinclair road. The board also agreed to send the road commission $6,000 as a pre-payment for sealcoating on Sinclair road and grade, drain and gravel for Clawson and Sommer roads.

Four township residents, Mrs. Joe King, Merl Edwards, Peter Adent and Jerry Sweet, were paid one-half the expense of application of chloride on the roads on which they reside. The total paid by the board was $38.

The board paid the fire protection bill for August and September in the amount of $318. The board also paid its share of the Tri-Township landfill costs for April through June for $256.

Mom, Son

FENNVILLE — Two persons, including a four-year-old boy, received apparently minor injuries shortly after noon Monday, when a pickup truck went through a culvert and into a five-foot deep ditch on Hutchins Lake road, about 2 1/2 miles from here, according to Allegan county sheriff's officers.

Treated by a private physician and sent home were Mrs. Carl Scario, route 1, Fennville, and her son, Anthony, 4, both passengers in the truck driven by Mrs. Lewis Marcellus, 33, route 1, Fennville. Mrs. Marcellus and another passenger, Roberta Scario, 2, were reported unhurt. Deputies said the road was wet at the time. No summonses were issued, deputies said.

Fennville To Hire
School CounselorState Aid Funds Higher Than Anticipated

FENNVILLE — With state aid greater than anticipated, the Fennville board of education voted last night to hire an additional junior high counselor and revised its budget to include income of $969,766 and expenditures of $958,664.

The board on Sept. 15 adopted a budget calling for income of $962,054, expenditures of $938,732, resulting in a surplus of $23,322. Board members reported that changes could be made to meet increased state aid without calling for another public hearing and voting on a formal adoption afterward.

The official student count, which determines the amount of state aid, is 1,651, or 75 more than the 1,576 students enrolled last year.

Presenting the revised budget provides for an $11,102 surplus. The board said, however, that this will be cut to about $3,000 when the new junior high counselor is hired.

In other business, Supt. Henry Martin reported that first and second graders, presently on half-day schedules, will go back to full day schedules starting next Monday. Also on Monday, kindergarten classes will be moved from Anna Michien school to Ganges school. Changes were approved Sept. 15, but the date they would become effective was not known then, because five teachers sought had not been secured. They will be on the job Monday.

The board also adopted a new ticket sale schedule for athletic events to bring the school in line with other high school members of the Kalamazoo Valley association. Students who purchase football and basketball tickets before the game will pay 75 cents for home games and $1 for away games. Prices had been 50 and 75 cents, respectively.

Gate sales here at the time of the game will be $1.25 for students in grades seven through twelve and adults, and 75 cents for kindergarten through sixth graders. Reserve team game admissions, formerly free, now will cost 25 cents for students and adults.

NILES — State police at the Niles post said one person received apparently minor injuries in a two-car collision about 2:10 p.m. Monday, on M-40, three miles north of Niles.

Injured was a driver, Mrs. Kristina Underly, 21, Barron Lake road, Niles, who was treated at Niles Pawling hospital and released.

Troopers said the other driver, Robert Lamberton, Jr., 40, Niles, was slowing to make a left turn onto Kinzie road when the collision occurred. Troopers said Mrs. Underly was cited for violation of the basic speed law.

South Haven Talks
With Building Bidder

SOUTH HAVEN — The city housing commission met Monday night with representatives of the first of three firms it is considering as the developers of its elderly housing project.

The commission met with spokesmen for Modern Builders, Inc. of Okemos who were the low bidders in a preliminary proposal for construction of a 30-unit building.

The commission will meet with representatives of Midwest Turnkey Developers of St. Joseph and Schumaker Construction Co. of Benton Harbor on the next two consecutive Mondays.

At a meeting last week the commission selected an area incorporating lots between Huron and Eagle streets on the east side of Indiana avenue for consideration as the elderly housing project site.

After meeting with all the bidders the commission plans to make a recommendation to the city council.

On Parking Lot

Berrien county's 1969 highway traffic fatality count was reduced by one on a ruling that the Aug. 23 death of a 16-year-old Stevensville youth occurred on private property, not a public roadway.

Berrien Sheriff's Lt. Nigel

rickhahn said his department is listing the death of Randolph Zachary as an accident, but it would not be counted in the overall highway traffic toll. Krickhahn said the reduction was made after conferring with state police. The change puts the county's 1969 highway toll at 43.

Zachary died of injuries after jumping from the hood of a car. He landed on his feet, but then fell with his head hitting the ground, according to the report at the Sheriff's department. The accident occurred in parking lot at Harding's Super market, Shawnee road, Bridgman, where he had been employed.

Mrs. Ladwig is a civilian employee at Ramey in the government service as secretary of personnel services branch. The award is presented only when all aspects of performance not only exceed normal requirements but are outstanding and deserve special commendation.

Mrs. Ladwig is stationed at Ramey AFB with her husband, Sgt. Howard Ladwig. She is the former Joyce Haigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Haigler, route 4, Coloma. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Ladwig of Riverside.

Construction Plan
In April Election

COLOMA — Supt. William Barrett told the Coloma board of education in a special meeting last night a building program proposal would probably be submitted to district voters in late November or early December.

Barrett told the board because of increases in costs in all areas of construction and interest in rates, the building program would definitely be more costly, but that he did not yet have the exact figures.

TRYING AGAIN

The superintendent was authorized by the board in August to begin the necessary procedures to set up the election to ask taxpayers to approve a building program as outlined in Proposal 1 of the building program defeated by voters last April.

Proposal one included major classroom and faculty expansion with the construction of additional classrooms at the Coloma, Pier and Washington elementary buildings, a new junior high school building, and additional special area rooms such as shops and science rooms and a gymnasium at the senior high school.

The other two proposals defeated by voters in April for a swimming pool and athletic field will not be resubmitted to voters.

Supt. Barrett told the board the district has 51 more students enrolled this year than last year. There are 2,710 enrolled this year while 2,659 were enrolled last year. He said the increase would have been even greater if the junior and senior high special education classes had not been dropped because the administration was unable to secure two teachers for the classes. He said only 14 of the 30 students in these classes last year are enrolled in other classes this year.

The superintendent said there are 1,104 students in elementary grades kindergarten through five with 108 at the Clymer building, 227 at Pier, 551 at Coloma, and 518 at Washington; 117 students in the middle school, grades six through eight; and 744 in the high school.

The board hired Mrs. Louise McConnell on a part-time basis to act as a critic teacher to assist beginning teachers in the system. Mrs. McConnell taught in the system prior to her retirement.

Board members agreed to raise pay for substitute teachers from $20 per day to $25 per day.

WILL APPRAISE BUILDINGS
Board treasurer Merlin Hauch was re-elected the board's delegate to the Berrien County Association of School Boards.

John Walter and Russell Carlson were named to work with Supt. Barrett to meet with area insurance agents to determine an appraisal system for school buildings and equipment for insurance purposes. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 13, at the administration building and all interested insurance agents are invited to attend. Supt. Barrett requested the meeting so definite specifications can be set for insurance bids.

The board accepted the presentation of a Michigan state flag from the Coloma high school graduating class of 1959. The flag was donated by the class of a memorial to its class president Rick Herndon, who lost his life on his third tour of duty in Vietnam. He was also one of the school's recipients of the coveted Green and Gold award.

The board authorized Barrett to eliminate teacher parking on the east side of the Washington building on a trial basis in an attempt to solve the traffic problem when parents pick up children.

On Two Others

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac board of education at a special meeting last night sold one vacated rural school building but tabled action on disposition of two others.

The North Wayne school was purchased by Wayne township for a token $1 and legal costs. The deed will contain a clause that the school will revert back to the school if it ceases to be used for community functions or if the township fails to maintain the building.

The school will be used as a recreation and meeting center for such organizations as Farm Bureau, 4-H clubs and various women's organizations and will be open to use by other organizations.

Disposal of the Lakeview school was tabled until the board can determine if the Indian Lake Improvement association will put money into repairing the school. The association had expressed interest in taking over the building but the board wants to determine if the group is willing to repair the dilapidated school.

Action on the Cushing Corners school, in which a group of Potawatomi Indians had expressed interest, was tabled until the Oct. 13 meeting. Michael Wilson of the Indian group had contacted Dr. Kenneth Reinke, superintendent of schools, about purchasing the building for meetings. The board will determine if Silver Creek township is interested in taking over the school for community purposes as required in the board's offer to sell all abandoned schools.

Jack Paul, transportation director, reported 2,244 students are transported by buses which cover 1,743 miles on daily runs. The bid of Kalamazoo Conservatory of Music was approved by the board to provide six new band instruments for $2,001.15. Band director Norman Vance requested purchase of the new instruments and said the old instruments which they replace would be used by music students in lower grades.

Purchase of four vacuum cleaners from the Unico Co. for $225 each also was approved.

Crash Kills Man
CADILLAC (AP) — A 40-year-old Ludington man, Donald W. Anway, was killed and his 39-year-old wife, Pearl, injured seriously Monday night when their car ran off a rural road in Wexford County and rolled over.

Police said the shooting spree followed an argument between the two men at a nearby diner. Davis was to be arraigned today before Seventh District court Judge Donald M. Goodwillie, Jr.

SOUTH HAVEN — The city parks and recreation department announced today it plans to sponsor a family ski club this winter. Interested persons are invited to contact parks and recreation director William Rhodes at the recreation building, 602 Phoenix street.

So. Haven Man Mute In Court

Charged With Shooting Wife

PAW PAW — A South Haven man, accused of the shooting death of his wife, stood mute Monday when arraigned in Van Buren County Circuit court here.

A plea of innocent was entered by Judge David Anderson, Jr. for John Henry Freeman, 43, charged with murder in the second degree, and with manslaughter.

His wife Marie was killed in a July shooting at the Freeman home in South Haven. Freeman was returned to Van Buren County jail to await trial.

Three persons appeared before Judge Anderson for sentencing.

Bill Harris, 19, of Paw Paw was sentenced to two to ten years in Southern Michigan Prison for violation of probation. He had been placed on two years probation in August, 1968, for breaking and entering.

Kenneth Merritt, 18, of South Haven was sentenced to four months in Van Buren County jail and placed on probation two years for unlawful use of a motor vehicle. He also was assessed a $150 fine.

GIVEN PROBATION
Geneva Partain, 43, of Mat-tawan was given one year's probation and ordered to make $60 restitution for uttering and publishing forged checks.

Others appearing for Circuit Court arraignment were: Alan Burns, 21, Decatur, who changed an earlier plea of innocent to guilty on a charge of breaking and entering, and remained free on bond pending a pre-sentence study.

Ralph Cunningham, 18, of South Haven, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of stolen property in connection with the theft of watches and wedding bands from Alting's Jewelry in South Haven. He was one of four men arrested.

He stood mute in connection with another unrelated charge, that of unarmed robbery. A plea of innocent was entered for him and he remained free on bond pending a pre-sentence investigation on the stolen property charge.

PLEADS INNOCENT
Carl E. Sparks, 26, Otsego, pleaded innocent to charges of fraud and attempt to commit fraud and remained free on his own recognizance. He was arrested in May after six walnut trees were felled on Lawrence Township property belonging to Harold Baker of St. Joseph.

Baker told authorities he had not authorized the cutting or the sale of the trees.

Officer Teague, 38, of Lawton, pleaded innocent to a charge of rape.

James Silas Kirby, 18, Lawrence, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny from a building. He remained in custody pending a pre-sentence study.

William McEadden, 20, of Lawton, pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a firearm and charges of possession of marijuana and control of marijuana were dropped. McEadden is free on bond pending pre-sentence study.

Jerry Seabolt, 20, of Decatur, pleaded guilty to larceny from a building. A charge of breaking and entering was dropped. He remained in jail pending a pre-sentence study.

Negroes On MSU Staff Like Adams

EAST LANSING (AP) — Acting Michigan State University President Walter Adams has received the endorsement of Negro faculty members to be appointed MSU's permanent president.

Adams, who has served in a temporary capacity for six months, was described as "dynamic, innovative and functional" in the endorsement issued Sunday by the Black Faculty Committee.

The endorsement was signed by Irvin E. Vance, chairman of the committee.

Meanwhile, a petition drive sponsored by students supporting Adams for the presidency was launched at the MSU-Southwestern Methodist football game Saturday. Some 5,000 signatures reportedly were obtained.

Adams has said repeatedly he does not want the appointment. He is one of several men suggested for the post.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Nation Is Failing On Traffic Safety

The National Safety Council's compilation of traffic death figures for the first five months of 1969 gives assurance, for whatever it is worth, that the United States is holding the line. This is, the ratio of five deaths per 100 million vehicle-miles remains the same as last year's ratio for the five-month period.

The touch of skepticism in that phrase, "for whatever it is worth," reflects our feeling that this is cold comfort. For in terms of actual deaths the toll is up three per cent — from 20,420 the first five months of 1968 to 21,060 this year. Only a rise in the number of vehicle-miles

If Yale Hikes Tuition, So May Slippery Rock

It seems worth passing note that Yale University has announced an increase in tuition and other fees. Last year, undergraduates paid $3,600 in inclusive fees which cover tuition and room and board. This year they'll shell out $3,900.

Some may conclude that this is of scant general interest, since relatively few of the nation's millions of college students will pursue truth at Yale. The thing to bear in mind is that fear-raising at New Haven is symptomatic of what is occurring on a lot of other campuses as well.

The cost of securing a college education has been rising steadily, year after year. Prospective undergraduates, and above all the fathers who help pay their way, might as well look the jackpot question in the eye: If Yale goes to $3,900, can others be far behind?

Mao Taking Credit For Killing Wolves

Generations of American school children have wrestled with arithmetic problems that begin with variations on this theme: "If Farmer Brown takes 14 pigs to market and sells 9, how many ... ?" The idea is to invest the problem with a little more interest and relevancy than it has if the pupil is simply asked, "How much is 14 minus 9?"

The Chinese Communists go at the matter in much the same way — but with a twist. A propaganda twist. Witness this problem from an arithmetic textbook: "Under the guidance of the great leader Mao, Sinkiang's livestock raisers killed two wolves on the first day and three on the second. How many wolves were killed altogether under the guidance of the great leader Mao?"

It seems rather crude, this constant reiteration of the "great leader Mao" theme in every facet of Chinese life. It also seems horrendously boring. But then, boring reiteration of propaganda themes is the hallmark of life in any totalitarian society. Young Communists or not, one's heart goes out to the Chinese youngsters who have to suffer this day after day — and may for the rest of their lives.

Potato Farmers Plow Under Part Of Crop

By Associated Press

Farmers in some of the nation's potato-growing areas have begun plowing under part of their crop in an effort to reverse a potato price decline. An estimated 1,000 acres of potatoes were destroyed in Oregon alone.

The action Thursday in Oregon was apparently in response to a National Farmers Organization (NFO) call for a four per cent cutback. NFO chief Oren Staley was not available and spokesmen at NFO headquarters in Corning, Iowa, declined comment.

However, reports from groups starting potato destruction throughout the country were similar to the comment of Ray Westrick, NFO organizer in Pennsylvania and owner of the state's largest potato farm.

Westrick said his group ordered the potatoes plowed under after a U.S. Department of Agriculture report that about three per cent of the nation's potato crop was surplus.

A statement released by several county NFO officials in Idaho and Washington said the destruction would "save the taxpayers money and avoid having to ask for an expensive diversion program for next year."

Glen Eppich, NFO chairman for Adams County, Wash., said the price of potatoes dropped $15 a ton recently after the government announced there would be a surplus.

VALUED AT $350,000

"It makes you cry but there's no use raising them if you can't get money for them," said Ed Petrusek of Klamath Falls County, Ore., as he watched a disc cut through a lush potato field.

Officials in the Columbia Basin of Washington estimated that 400 to 500 acres were plowed under at a cost to farmers of about $350,000.

In Idaho, the biggest potato producing state in the nation, there were reports of crop destruction in several counties.

Neil Venturacci of Ontario, Ore., regional NFO supervisor for Oregon, said salvageable potatoes would be given to welfare and charitable groups.

Vocational Instructors Are Honored

Two teachers of vocational agriculture in Berrien county high schools were honored at a special awards banquet Wednesday on the Michigan State university campus, East Lansing.

Clifford Machacek of Benton Harbor high school and Howard Laharing, Buchanan high school, received awards for their contributions to education during their 10 years of membership in the Michigan Association of Teachers of Vocational Agriculture.

Machacek has taught vocational agriculture at Benton Harbor for the past 19 years.

The two Berrien men were among 26 teachers honored from throughout Michigan at the associations 50th annual conference.

Doctor Plans To Leave Three Oaks

THREE OAKS — Dr. Charles J. Grayson, who has practiced medicine in Three Oaks for the past 23 years, announced that he will discontinue his practice at his office at 4 Maple street effective Aug. 15.

Dr. Grayson plans to go to Muskegon and join his two sons in practice there. His son, Bruce, is a medical doctor and Gray is a dentist. The two are associated in practice there.

Dr. Grayson has for many years served both the village and township of Three Oaks as health officer.

BRUCE BLOSSAT Nixon Mends Fences For '70 Campaign

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon has begun putting the new gloss of updated management techniques of his political operations. But much valuable time has been lost and he may need immense good fortune to come out well in the 1970 elections.

No one can visit Republican National Committee headquarters today without encountering a host of eager new faces, freshly minted organizational charts, a flush of energy and high morale.

Already well-established in the White House itself, of course, is former South Carolina state chairman Harry Dent, with his pained offer in the East Wing symbolizing a belated bow to the political realities of the presidency.

Memoranda dealing with patronage matters and the thousand and one political problems that concern governors, mayors, state chairmen and others are arching across the short trajectory from White House to nearby committee offices and back again.

On a recent weekend at Airline House in Warrenton, Va., committee officials were joined by Representatives of the senatorial and congressional campaign committees to burnish the new party mechanisms and get ready for the day when all three groups would gather under one new roof near Capitol Hill.

Yet the nearly euphoric state which seems to be accompanying these changes cannot obscure the damage done in the first several months after Nixon was elected.

All aside from the endless irritation caused in many states by the President's unorthodox and erratic job-filling procedures, the patronage operation was largely wasted as a lever for providing potential early advantage to 1976 candidates for Congress and some key state offices.

Use of some available federal jobs to give candidates showcase identity can often avoid later bruising primary battles, since they may gain a commanding lead for nomination if they are otherwise suitable choices.

More than a few well-placed Republicans are fuming over what they consider the Nixon administration's senseless throw away of this opportunity.

The President himself evidently did not wake up fully to this matter until he became angered at the special-election loss this spring of a vacated Republican U.S. House seat in Montana.

Coming on top of the earlier loss of Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's Wisconsin seat, this outcome made still more distant the prospect that the GOP can capture the 218 seats in 1970 needed for a controlling majority. Their total after Montana was 190, down two from the frail net gain of four they managed in the 1968 election.

The party may not find it easy, either, to hold onto the Massachusetts seat vacated by the death of Rep. William Bates and due to be filled this fall.

Worse still is the outlook that many other holes may be opened up in the GOP house lineup as sitting congressmen in several states perhaps decide to try for U.S. Senate seats next year. With the Democrats' Senate edge only 57-43, the lure is great. But any heavy use of congressmen as 1970 Senate "material" could gravely disadvantage the GOP struggle for the House.

Some of these things are judged inescapable difficulties. But some of Nixon's good political friends are faulting him for blowing the patronage bit, for waiting too long to install new National Chairman Rogers Morton and get party reorganization under way, for being so intent on quickly adopting a high-frown, statesmanlike posture that he grossly neglected the grubby, routinized political necessities of this new office.

Yet a steady de-Americanizing of the Vietnam war, a period of relative quiet in the cities, and the continued strife in the Democratic party could combine to offset this unaccountably bad beginning and put his party in good position for the important 1970 races.

West was one of those players who don't like to open a four-card suit headed by the jack, so he decided not to open a heart against the no-trump game. He also decided against a spade or diamond lead and put the seven of clubs on the table.

It was a far better choice than a heart, which would have set up two heart tricks for South, or a diamond lead, which would have given South four diamond tricks.

South played low from dummy and, after East produced the jack, played his four-spot. He was sure to make three club tricks but saw no hurry about taking them and rather hoped that East would continue clubs.

Well, East was too smart for that. He read that seven-spot

Victor Borge To Present 'Comedy In Music'

His Career Is Story Of Success

Victor Borge, who has played over 3,500 performances of his "Comedy in Music" and is currently celebrating his 26th year in show business, began his career in Denmark at the age of ten.

He waited that long because he was first introduced to the piano at the age of three by his mother. His father, first violinist with the Royal Danish symphony, wanted him to study the fiddle, but Borge was determined to pursue the keyboard. Instead, by the time he reached his tenth birthday, he was ready to make his concert debut in Copenhagen. Overnight he was hailed as a prodigy and won scholarships to the music conservatories in Copenhagen, Berlin and Vienna.

The story of how Victor Borge combined his musical artistry with his unique wit is now part of entertainment world history. At 14 he was given the honor of playing Rachmaninoff's Second Piano Concerto as soloist with the Copenhagen Philharmonic orchestra. Most child prodigies suffer from stage fright, but Borge experienced the reverse, for he felt uneasy on behalf of his audience who, he thought, often showed some tension. Suddenly he had an impulse to put his audience at ease, so he turned and gave a long, slow wink. The audience began to titter. The conductor, with his back to the audience and the boy's winking eye out of his line of vision, nervously accelerated his beat, causing the orchestra to run ahead of the soloist. Soon the soloist and the orchestra were completely out of touch. Borge, in the middle of a cadenza, stopped playing, walked to the conductor's stand, turned the score back three pages, bowed to the orchestra and again winking at the audience, resumed the concerto. The roars of laughter were deafening. Then and there Borge's "comedy in music" was born.

He integrated more and more humor into his concerts, then wrote musical comedies, composed, directed and conducted. When the star comedian of one of these musicals fell ill, Borge replaced him and another dimension to a fabulous career was added. Borge became the idol of Denmark and a leading star of stage and screen. He and his piano starred in a score of films. Recently when

VICTOR BORGE

Borge was touring Denmark, he found that many of his old films were still being played in movie houses throughout the country, twenty-five years later.

The word about Borge soon spread to Sweden and a tour of all Scandinavia followed. But his brilliant career was temporarily halted when the Nazis invaded his homeland. The devastating Borge satire had too often been directed at Hitler and the swastika, and he became one of the chief targets of the Nazis. Appearing in Sweden at the time of the fall of Denmark, he was forced to catch the last vessel to leave Finland for America during the war. His life or death was now in the hands of the Nazis, and once, while still in Sweden, Nazi agents jumped him as he was returning from the theater and tried to break his fingers. A determined Borge was able to overpower them and make his escape.

Almost penniless and unable to speak English, he arrived in America in 1941, and for the next year lived on little or no funds, most of which were spent in movie houses where he went daily to listen and learn to speak English.

Having been the star of a dozen Danish movies, it was natural that he should head for Hollywood. But the studio gates did not swing open for him and it was again months and months of living in enforced frugality. Eventually he was heard performing at a private party and hired on the spot to do the audience warm-up for Bing Crosby's popular radio show. The radio warm-up was historic, and although contracted on a week-to-week basis, Borge remained on the show for a record fifty-six weeks. With in his second week, he was named in a nation-wide radio editors' poll as "the comedy find of the year."

And now the man who made multitudes laugh in Europe was finally launched in this country with the "Victor Borge Show," "Lower Basin Street" and many other top-rated shows. He toured the United States and Canada, from Carnegie Hall to the Hollywood Bowl, and became one of the most demanded stars in the leading hotels in America.

Scores of television appearances followed radio, and Borge was headlined with the top TV personalities in the country. Not the most prolific seer would have predicted that several years later Victor Borge, with his self-taught English, would be the highest paid performer in television history.

In 1953, what was to become theatrical history happened. Victor Borge hired a theater in Seattle, Wash., for a week's engagement. Told he was mad; not trusted by the skeptical theater manager who demanded his money in advance and would not take a percentage of the gross, Victor Borge rocked far-off Broadway and the show business sages. His performances were jammed night after night, and the result was phenomenal. Engagements in San Francisco's Curran Theatre, a sweep through Montreal, Detroit, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and the Eastern states, and the theatre world was agast and set back on its feet. What could be more logical than making the next stop Broadway?

The era of Victor Borge on Broadway began in 1953. He followed that success by record-breaking road engagements, new European successes, performances for thousands of GIs in France, Germany and Greenland at no cost to the government, and then proceeded to reconquer his native land of Denmark.

Since then he has been back and forth between the United States and Europe continuing to break all records.

With what seems to be no virgin territory left open to him, Borge has said, "There are many places I've never played. As long as the audiences are happy, I'll be happy to perform for them." Current plans for this peripatetic entertainer in music include a world tour, more concertizing, and a bit of precious time with his wife and their five children in St. Croix, Virgin Islands, where they maintain a 250-year-old mansion.

At the rate he's going, Victor Borge may already be booking his "Comedy in Music" on the moon.

Vacationers Are On Move

If the growing stream of mobile homes, campers, truck trailers, tooling down the thoroughways is any indication, we're fast becoming a nation on wheels. In fact, there are better than 1,400,000 mobile homes and nearly a million campers of various sizes, shapes, hues, and means of locomotion bouncing and bounding their ways to the narrowing frontiers of America's lakes, mountains, and shores this summer.

Today's modern versions of the covered wagon range from simple tent trailers to air-conditioned luxury mobile homes with prices to match. There are travel trailers, from $700 to $10,000 and higher; camping trailers with starting prices for under $300 and luxury models as high as $3,000; truck campers from under $1,000 up to $4,000 and higher; and motor homes from under $5,000 to over $30,000.

Converted vans, pickup trucks and the camper body to fit it can be financed through full service banks at rates much like new cars. This means the bank will usually give up to 36 months to pay and they will often allow up to four years on the camper body when it is bought separately from the truck. Full service bank financing terms for motor homes and travel trailers usually have a maximum time of five years. For really expensive mobile homes, some dealers will go as long as seven years.

Their rates will be somewhat higher than those offered by the banks.

If you're thinking of seeing America first in one of these holiday homes on wheels, there are some 400,000 campsites available throughout the country. Should you be traveling during peak vacation times, you'd do well to settle on a campsite by early afternoon, particularly if you want electrical water and sewer hookups.

And because all types of homes-on-the-haul present driving situations different from that of an ordinary car, some solid driving practice is needed before loading up and heading for the hills. Anyone carting their vacation home should learn to rely on outside rearview mirrors to see what's going on behind. And on windy days, particularly on turnpikes and freeways, you'll have to learn to cope with the buffeting the larger vehicle will experience.

Neal Turner of Kalamazoo was best man and ushers were Donald Karnes, brother of the groom, and Steven and John Branner, brothers of the bride.

A garden reception was at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a graduate of South Charleston high school and the University of Michigan where she received a bachelor of music degree and was a member of Alpha Xi Delta social sorority and Tau Delta Sigma band honorary. For the past year she has been a graduate teaching assistant in the department of music at Ohio State university.

The groom is a graduate of St. Joseph high school and Lake Michigan college. He received his bachelor of science degree in social science from Michigan State university and is employed by the federal government in Washington, D.C.

Following a wedding trip to Miami Beach, Fla., the couple is at home in Washington, D.C.

Some public schools excel at stimulating and developing gifted children. At home you have opportunities to provide her with an unlimited environment to stimulate her intellectual interests.

Your Child's Welfare

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

Parent Angry At Child

If you saw your son, 4, hit his little sister you might feel angry. If you told him not to hit her again and he defiantly did hit her, you might feel furious. You could tell him you are very angry at him for what he did. Or you could smack him on a safe part of his body. The sharpness of the screech or of the slap may have depended on how angry you felt. Or you could just have told him you were very angry. Some Pollyannaish parent counselors say to parents that just telling the disobedient child you are angry or furious should be adequate punishment in such a case.

Suppose your children 9 and 11 left the dinner table after a meal and left everything there for you to put away. Or suppose these youngsters were running wildly and roughhousing in the living room. Would you feel sure they would quiet down and be civil if you told them how angry you felt over their behavior?

RESTRAINING CHILD

Some mothers living today can remember when "experts" on child rearing told them not to restrain the little child at all lest they stir up emotional conflicts in him, warp his personality. However, more recent books and articles on the subject admit there must be some limitations, often naming some of them. But they don't explain to the parent effective ways to curb the little child's behavior. The nearest to doing so is explaining to the youngster why he shouldn't or letting him know you are angry at him when he deliberately does or repeats what you clearly had told him not to do.

An occasional counselor advises that when as parent you can no longer contain your anger, giving the youngster a slap might be desirable. It might stop him and will surely relieve your own tension - "clear the atmosphere".

ANGER GROWS

None of us parents could hope to feel no anger when a child of any age deliberately does what he well knows he shouldn't; and would we not feel more anger if we said "Stop, No or Don't" and he ignored our command? Indeed, the most anger a parent may feel toward a misbehaving child is when she tries in vain to curb his behavior.

Added to a mother's first anger is more and more anger the longer and more often the child ignores her effort to restrain him. In case a mother said No or Don't many times in vain doesn't she feel more furious on each successive failure of hers? If you heard her repeating this word it would grow successively louder and more piercing on each repetition. You could then infer that her anger had increased.

Answering Parent's Questions

Q. We have a daughter, 9, with an extremely high IQ. She is highly creative and a real achiever. I feel the public schools may not have sufficient enrichment. Should a child like this be in a private school?

A. Much depends on the public or private school.

'Your Problems,' By Ann Landers

Heavenly Bodies His Hobby

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago my husband bought a telescope to study the stars—he said. After the fourth night he lost interest in the sky and is now studying other “heavenly bodies.” We live in an apartment which is ideally situated for his new hobby. He hurries through dinner, races to the window and stays there four or five hours at a time.

Last week he invited three of the boys from the office to enjoy the fun. He was quite disappointed because his two best subjects for observation (he calls them Venus and Mars) were not at home. He promised the boys he’d invite them back.

I am disgusted with him and he knows it. I am also concerned that he might be breaking the law. I’ve heard of men being arrested as Peeping Toms. Please inform me.—Just Looking, Thanks

Dear Just: So long as Tom stays in his own apartment he cannot be arrested. In the meantime, be patient, dearie. Tom will tire of his hobby after a while. Growing up takes time.

Driving Her Nutty

DEAR ANN: A distant relative of mine who is going through the menopause is acting very oddly. Six weeks ago she telephoned at 2:00 A.M. and asked, “Are you all right?” I said, “Yes, of course.”

ANN LANDERS

She then related a terrible dream she had in which I was murdered. That was the end of my night’s sleep.

A week later she telephoned at 6:00 A.M. and asked if I had called her. I said, “No.” She then explained that her phone had rung and she heard a scream that sounded like my voice.

This past week she has telephoned five times, accused me of calling her and not speaking, just breathing into the phone. I’m sure the woman needs a psychiatrist. In the meantime I’m going to need one, too, if she doesn’t quit bothering me.

Any suggestions? — PESTERED BY A NUT

DEAR PES: Suggest that she see a doctor and get help. Then help yourself by getting an unlisted telephone number. It costs nothing.

Not Your Place

DEAR ANN: Our 11-year-old son’s best friend, Joey, wants to admire his father and tries hard to justify his drinking. Last night he asked if I was against beer, “even if a person can drink 12 bottles in a row and still walk a straight line.” He added with fake bravado, “My dad can do it!”

I gave a non-committal answer and then hated myself for not having the courage to tell the boy what heavy, continuous drinking can do to a person. How can I get the message across without running down his father, and incidentally, his mother, too?—AUSTIN

DEAR AUSTIN: It is not your responsibility to “get the message across.” A child’s basic concepts are learned at home, not from the neighbors. When the boy asks leading questions tell him to talk to his parents. In the meantime, some individuals who grew up around alcoholism hate liquor and never touch it. Others turn out to be second and third generation lusers, which gives the impression that alcoholism is hereditary. It is not, of course. It is a learned response to frustration, loneliness and insecurity.

Drinking may be “in” to the kids you run with—but it can put you “out” for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read “Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only.” Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Project For Fall Sewing

SKIRT: Sew-quick is the word for these fall fashions. Fifty-four-inch squares of blanket-weight wool are pre-fringed for you to sew into a glamorous fireside skirt.

TOPPER: Kick off your fall sewing with several toppers made from pre-fringed wools. Easy to make, they're comfortable to wear.

Back-to-school means back-to-sewing for all the millions of mothers and daughters who start now on serious stitchin' time. Fall is the season for expert tailoring, for linings and interlinings, for working with woolsens and furs and velvets. Anyone can sew a summer shift; it takes skill to sew for winter.

To put you in the mood, start on a warmup or kickoff project, something that gives a big fashion score for your time-and-cash investment. Today's idea is a quick-and-easy brainstorm by Burlington guaranteed to warm you on crisp September mornings or flatter you on social September evenings.

The secret is a 54-inch square of fleecy blanket-weight wool, woven with no raw edges and all ready to be turned into a warm poncho, cape, pullover, stole or hostess skirt with minimum sewing. It is woven with a fringed section every 54 inches and is cut from the bolt so both cut ends are fringed. The simple, wearable designs make the most of the fringe, which is equally effective on traditional tartans, punchy plaids or contemporary stripes.

The skirt-and-scarf combo, for instance, just involves cutting the skirt to the right length, so the fringe acts as the hem and giving it a side seam and ribbon belt. Because of the weight of the wool, details involving double thicknesses (such as zippers and self-belts) are not recommended. The cutoff portion is shown used as a coordinating scarf, but it could also be used for pockets, a headscarf, a drawstring bag or sweater trim.

The pullover requires only neck and sleeve binding of ribbon or velvet and is a casual, comfortable topper for slacks. The other designs in the series are just as simple and just as effective... especially the classic poncho which keys the group.

The 54-inch fringed cut is also useful with no sewing at all, as a lap robe, stadium warmer, carriage cover or cat-napper.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Nixon Prepared To 'Carve' Viet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Nixon administration is ready to accept a de facto partitioning of South Vietnam as part of the price for settling the Vietnam war, the Los Angeles Times said today. The newspaper said there were indications the South Vietnamese government would agree to the idea, albeit reluctantly. The dispatch from Washington by Times newsmen David E. Martin and Tom Lambert said the concept involves tacit recognition of Communist-held areas within South Vietnam in which the National Liberation Front would retain military units and administrative control.

Steel Hikes Testing Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp.'s price boost on products used in everything from autos to garbage cans provides the Nixon administration with a major test of its anti-inflation policies. It's "another measure of inflation" and "we're not happy with it," Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said of U.S. Steel's announcement of a 4.8 per cent increase affecting steels accounting for nearly 50 per cent of the tonnage sold by the industry. A disturbing factor about the price hike by the industry's No. 1 producer was that it came on the same day the government released figures indicating a possible slowdown in the inflationary pace.

House Okays Desegregation Plans

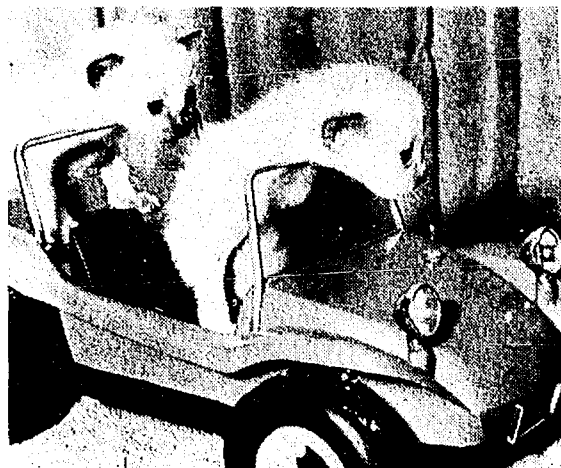

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three provisions that could slow federal efforts to desegregate southern schools have been approved by the House. The provisions, which still must be acted on by the Senate, would prohibit the government from forcing school districts to bus students or close schools, and would give statutory approval to freedom of choice desegregation plans. Such plans, which permit a white student to refuse to attend a school with Negroes, have been held unconstitutional by the courts unless they lead to true desegregation.

Soviet Army Short On Food?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet army virtually ran out of food during the first week of its invasion of Czechoslovakia, according to U.S. specialists on Eastern Europe. These government experts disputed the public position of top U.S. civilian and military leaders that the Soviet-led invasion last Aug. 21 was a demonstration of efficiency. "It wasn't efficient," contended one such specialist in an interview as the first anniversary of the event approached.

Violence Shakes Calcutta

CALCUTTA (AP) — A threat of new mob violence hung over India's largest city today after 5,000 police, incensed by West Bengal's Communist-led government, ransacked the State Assembly chamber. The police attack, which one assemblyman said was unparalleled in the history of the world, occurred while President Nixon was visiting New Delhi, 800 miles to the northwest. It was rather as if the police in New York had gone on a rampage against Gov. Nelson Rockefeller while Queen Elizabeth II was paying a state visit to Washington, but there was no indication that Nixon and his party were even aware of the events in Calcutta.

Mileage Pay Remains Same For Michigan's Lawmakers

LANSING (AP) — Legislators will have to struggle along with their present mileage allowance until next year, the State Officers Compensation Commission has decided.

Only four of seven commissioners, a bare quorum, showed up for a hastily-called meeting on the issue Thursday.

Gov. William Milliken on Tuesday signed into law a bill asking the commission to make a decision by today on requested changes in mileage allowances.

The commission decided because of the tight deadline it didn't have time to make a fair decision and would let the matter go until a meeting early in 1970.

Only one legislator, Rep. Robert W. Davis, R-St. Ignace, showed up at the meeting. He said he had only $260 left of his $3,000 annual expense account.

"Pretty soon that will be gone and I'll be traveling on my own money," he told the commission. Previously legislators received $12,500 in salary and $2,500 in expenses for a $15,000 total. They now receive $15,000 in salary and $3,000 in expenses.

Under the old system, the $2,500 was lumped in with the salary and did not have to be accounted for. Now legislators must account for their $3,000 in expenses.

"We want to give the old system time to work," said commission chairman Lawrence E. Carino of Detroit, an executive of WJBK-TV.

Hundreds Killed

HONG KONG (AP) — Hundreds of persons died and many buildings crumbled in Swatow on the South China coast in an earthquake last Saturday, travelers from Swatow reported today.

He said so far the commission had found only 18 of 110 House members had exhausted or nearly exhausted their $3,000 allowance.

Most of the complaints came from Upper Peninsula lawmakers, who might have the longest distance to travel. Commissioner Ralph Huhtala, from Kingsford in the Upper Peninsula, wanted some immediate action.

He then reluctantly went along with the majority since to do otherwise would prevent the commission from taking any action at all.

The formal statement adopted by the commission said:

"Last fall, the commission authorized a flat $3,000 of accountable expenses for legislators, fully understanding that at least one year of experience, and review of that experience, was needed before any changes could be thoughtfully considered. Until this year there had been no accountability, but legislators had been given a lump sum expense allowance.

"The commission has considered inequities claimed by certain legislators in mileage expenses and has made a cursory examination of the records of the House and Senate members who have filed expenses.

"Although some inequities in mileage allowances are apparent, they cannot be dealt with justly on a patchwork basis. The commission finds that although some legislators have already used the entire $3,000, a majority have not, and some have filed no expense claims at all. Adequate figures are not yet available for the current legislative session to arrive at any reasonable conclusion fair to the public as well as to all legislators.

"For these reasons, the commission is taking no action at this time, but recommends that members of the legislature file full expense accounts even after they exceed the $3,000 maximum, so that early next year when the records are available for unhurried examination, a sound and deliberate determination can be made. The commission plans on meeting early in 1970."

Nixon Seeks Improved Relations In Pakistan

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — President Nixon arrived in Pakistan today and began talks with President A. M. Yahya Khan which Nixon hoped would bolster relations with the onetime close ally of the United States.

Bringing the Asian portion of their round-the-world tour to a close, Nixon and his wife arrived from India in 100-degree heat. But most of their 21-hour stay was to be spent in the spacious, air conditioned old Governor's House that the British left.

At a sweltering airport ceremony, both Nixon and Yahya referred to the shift since the days when America and Pakistan were close partners in the anti-Communist "southern tier" across Asia that John Foster Dulles put together.

With the United States bogged down in Vietnam and showing a marked antipathy toward participation in any more Asian wars, Pakistan has recently been cultivating relations with Communist China, her big northern neighbor.

Yahya recalled Nixon's visit as vice president in 1953 and said:

"That was the beginning of a new era of cooperation and mutual collaboration between our two countries. The pattern of our relations has changed somewhat since then, but there is no diminution in our mutual regard nor, I am happy to say, in your country's interest in Pakistan's well-being."

RELATIONS STRAINED

Nixon in reply referred to "some strains in our relations" over the years and said:

"What we want to do on this visit is to restore a friendship based on the mutual trust which is so essential to good relations between two countries."

Crowds along the five-mile route from the airport to the Governor's House waved flags and cheered, but the intense heat reduced the turnout. The crowd was considerably less than the throng that greeted Mrs. John F. Kennedy when she visited Lahore in 1962.

MOTORCADE STOPS

Nixon halted the motorcade once, to walk through a group of bobbing, weaving male dancers. With the dignified, swagger-sticked Yahya in tow, Nixon plunged into the waiting crowd, smiling and shaking hands.

As Nixon and Yahya began their talks, the visiting chief of state said in a statement that he looked forward to "our sharing in candor our respective assessments of our national interests and informing each other of our views."

Nixon said he wanted to reaffirm a basic feeling of friendship and respect between the United States and Pakistan that he said has survived both good times and difficult ones.

He pledged that the United States will continue to give strong encouragement to Asian development but he said, "Asian hands must shape the Asian future."

Foreign Student Ends Year's Stay

THREE OAKS — Manfred Schneider, who has spent the past year in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hoadley and their son, Rick, left on Tuesday of this week to return to his home in Verden, Germany.

The German youth arrived here last August as an exchange student under the Youth for Understanding Exchange program. In June he graduated from the River Valley high school.

The Hoadleys accompanied him to Ann Arbor on Tuesday. From there, with other exchange students, he continued on by bus to New York City.

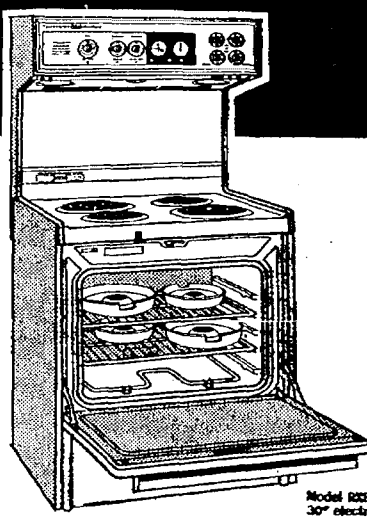

Mr. and Mrs. Hoadley entertained at open house in their home for Manfred this week.

The Hoadleys took him on a trip to Texas and Mexico and two weeks ago he went to Ames, Iowa to visit David Van Deventer who spent two months last summer with Manfred and his parents in Germany as an exchange student.

UP TO THE WHITES: Whitney Young, Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, says it's primarily up to whites to persuade white communities to work with Negroes. He spoke in Washington Thursday at the close of the league's annual conference. (AP Wirephoto).

Management Tour To View 12 Farms

A dozen farm families in Allegan county can expect approximately 2,000 visitors Thursday when they play host to the 21st annual Michigan State University Farm Management Tour.

"Farming today is specialized," Homer Patterson, Allegan county extension director said. "We selected six types of farming we thought were typical in our county and paired two farms in each type which are reasonably near each other."

"This will allow a dairyman, for example, to attend programs at two dairy farms, one at 9:30 a.m. and another at 11 a.m. We hope all visitors will also come to the Allegan county fairgrounds at 12:30 p.m. for our buffet lunch, entertainment and speaking program."

Speaker for the day is a young, farm manager from Batavia, N.Y., who has been honored by the National JC organization as one of the four outstanding young farmers in the nation. He is Robert V. Call Jr., who with his brother operates a 4,500-acre dairy, grain and vegetable farm.

Here are the farms open to visitors with the first listed to have a program at 9:30 a.m. and the second at 11 a.m.:

DAIRY — Ray Brenner, Shelbyville, 300 acres, 35 Holsteins that average 14,500 pounds annually; James Gilder and Son, Hopkins, 500-acre farm with 120-cow herd with new calf housing and milking set-up.

POULTRY — Wayne Schipper, Overisel, a 225-acre farm with 50,000 laying birds; Righterink Poultry Farm, Hamilton, a family operation with 105,000 laying birds producing 1,000 cases of eggs weekly.

FRUIT — Arnold Green, Fennville, operates essentially a one-man 100-acre orchard selling wholesale and hires custom operators for help; Barden Bros., South Haven, is a 500-acre family corporation orchard with "team responsibility" in management and 50,000 bushel storage capacity.

RECREATION — Plank Road Farm, Bradley, a unique entertainment farm with rides and exhibits operated by Frederick Hilbert and Sons and Ray Smith, manager; East Lake Farm, Hopkins, a swimming, boating, tenting, fishing and mobile home facility operated by Donald Weick.

CHRISTMAS TREE — Carl Wahmhoff, Grand Junction, a 548-acre farm, 294 acres in Christmas trees and some muck land for vegetables; Blueberry Pines, Allegan, a 623-acre farm operated by Jim Leach with a large Christmas tree acreage and 23 acres in blueberries.

VEGETABLES ON MUCK SOIL — Shoemaker Bros., (Jim, George and Charles)

grow potatoes and sweet corn for fresh market on 240 acres; Bourdo Bros., (Bart and Ray) have 300 acres cropped to potatoes, sweet corn and cabbage. They are neighboring farms east of Shelbyville.

September 29 is the predicted date for the start of this season's Concord grape harvest for processing in southwestern Michigan, according to Ceel Van Den Brink, advisory agricultural meteorologist for the Western Michigan Agricultural Weather Service. This is nine days later than the average starting date of Sept. 20.

The maturity date forecast was based on weather information obtained from Southwestern Michigan sub-stations and conferences with the National Grape Cooperative.

The forecast was based on a formula that uses the buildup of degree-day heat units after April 1. It calls for the start of harvest 60 to 62 days after the accumulation of 1,500 units. A degree-day is measured for each degree the average daily temperature is above 50 degrees. Eau Claire's sub-station reached this 1,500 unit figure this past Tuesday.

The September 29th date is based on the assumption that weather conditions will not depart too much from normal for the remainder of the season, Van Den Brink said. Wet, cloudy and cool weather just prior to harvest would delay harvest and unseasonable warm, sunny weather just before harvest could advance the date a little.

Bulb Research To Bloom With Grant Renewal

A $160,000 grant renewal from the Dutch Flower Bulb Industry will provide for the continuation of research that is making Michigan State University a national center for bulb information.

Horticulturalist Dr. August DeHertogh, who is in charge of the program said the research is aimed at finding out how Dutch flower bulbs react to conditions in North America, and developing techniques for commercial florists to treat the bulbs.

The basic problem being treated is that Dutch bulbs go through a change in personality between the time they leave the Netherlands and arrive at U.S. and Canadian florists.

As a result of changes during shipment and a new environment in North America, Dutch flower bulbs have different growth patterns than they would have in the Netherlands.

"It's vital for florists to know how to treat bulbs so they will flower on a specific date and grow to specific heights," DeHertogh said. "If a florist needs hyacinths for Christmas, he must know exactly when to set the bulbs and how to treat them so they will be in flower for holiday sales. A mistake of a day might mean disastrous sales losses."

It takes 300,000 hemlock seeds to make a pound.

Sodus Experiment Station Tour Set

The annual twilight tour at the Sodus Agricultural Experiment Station will be held Friday, Aug. 8, at 6:30 p.m., according to James Neibauer, Berrien county extension agent for vegetables.

"This annual event provides an opportunity for growers and others interested in vegetables and small fruit production to view trial plots and visit with specialists," Neibauer said. The experiment farm is located one-mile west and a half-mile south of Sodus on River road.

Dr. John Downs, superintendent of the experiment station indicated that visitors will be able to evaluate tomato, asparagus and watermelon varieties. There are also plots of breeding lines of tomatoes, cucumbers, muskmelons and peppers established for work being done by Drs. Downs, Baker, and Honma of Michigan State University.

Fertilizer trials with muskmelons and picking cucumbers that show response of these crops to different levels of fertilizer application can also be viewed. Research conducted with insecticides on cabbage, peppers and beans will be explained by Dr. Art Wells of MSU.

The experiment station has been in operation since 1954 when MSU, the Southwestern Michigan Growers Association, Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., Berrien and Van Buren counties, plus many local businesses cooperated in establishing and funding the farm. This excellent cooperation has continued for the past 15 years.

CA Storage Clinic Set

The annual Controlled Atmosphere (CA) Storage Clinic for fruit storage operators will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. next Thursday, in Room 108-B of Wells Hall on the campus of Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Included in the program will be talks on research done for improving the storage and market quality of CA Jonathan apples, current recommendations on the use of Alar and other chemicals for CA apples, optimum time of harvest predictions, CA developments and systems in Ontario, Canada, plus construction ideas concerning pole buildings, and foam-in-place insulation.

Wells Hall is located on the south campus, just east of the football stadium. Public parking and eating facilities are nearby. The clinic is sponsored by the MSU horticultural department.

Florida Now Is Twelfth Biggest Peach Producer

Peach varieties with low chilling requirements and nematode resistant rootstocks have enabled Florida to jump to the rank of 12th nationally in the number of peach trees.

Official crop reports say Florida has 5,000 acres of commercial peaches and 600 acres of nectarines. Adding smaller orchards would bring the total peach and nectarine acreage to about 6,000.

Commercial orchards include 3,200 acres in northern Florida, nearly two-thirds of which were planted in 1964 or earlier. In the central part of the state, 2,400 acres have been planted by growers new to peaches and at least 90 per cent have been planted since 1964.

"Peach leaf curl has been no problem and brown rot control has not been a major problem," Ralph Sharpe, peach specialist with one of Florida's agricultural experiment station said. Small volumes of peaches 1 1/2 inches and larger brought from $7 to $20 a bushel, while smaller sizes barely returned costs, according to Roger Parker, of Peaches of Florida.

MORE EFFICIENT

Michigan State University crop scientists found that a herbicide's killing power may depend on nitrogen available to the weed. In laboratory studies with oats, high nitrogen stimulated earlier plant death when applied with atrazine and linuron.

$387,500 Budget Set For Apples

The Michigan Apple Committee approved a record budget of $387,500 for the 1969-70 crop year and reelected Ivan Stein of Bangor, as chairman during the committee's annual meeting held recently in Grand Rapids.

The budget for the coming year, which represents an increase of $108,500 from last year was based on the July 1 apple crop estimate for Michigan of 16.7-million "42-pound equivalents" by the United States Department of Agriculture. (The USDA will no longer report in bushels, but rather in "millions of pounds" and "42-pound equivalents.")

The previous high budget of the committee was $373,050 for the 1964-65 crop year. Last year's budget was $279,000. The largest slice and greatest increase of the current year's budget $273,805 is earmarked to advertising and promotion with $44,000 going to growing services, $51,000 for operating expenses, and $18,695 will be used for operating capital.

In other action, the committee elected Al Wardowski of Leslie as vice chairman. Wardowski succeeds Paul Buton of Farmington who has completed two three-year terms of service on the committee.

The peanut, classed as a fruit, grows underground.

Air Tour Rescheduled

The Galien River Soil Conservation district's air tour of southern Berrien county has been rescheduled for Sunday, according to Robert Sherrill, district chairman.

Landowners in the district will be assured of a flight over their property where many conservation practices such as, contour strip cropping, drainage and farm ponds can best be seen from the air.

A 40-minute ride will cost $5 and the air tour will start at 9 a.m. and run until dusk. The plane will take off at different intervals throughout the day from Oselka airport, located three miles southwest of Three Oaks.

MACMA Sets Grape Meets

Two meetings will be staged in southwestern Michigan next week by MACMA grape marketing committee for members and non-members for discussion preparatory to the fall harvest.

One is scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Youth Memorial building, Berrien Springs, and the other for 8 p.m. Thursday at the Van Buren Farm Bureau

Five More States Get Leaf Beetle Quarantine

Five more states have been placed under Federal quarantine because of cereal leaf beetle infestations, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Extension of the Federal cereal beetle quarantine to Kentucky, Maryland, New York, Virginia, and West Virginia was determined to be necessary on the basis of evidence presented at a public hearing in Louisville, Ky., on July 15, according to plant pest control officials of USDA's agricultural Research Service.

Officials said the action is designed to provide additional protection to uninfested areas against artificial spread of the cereal leaf beetle.

The quarantine regulates the movement of items likely to spread the pest from infested portions of quarantined states. Such items include hay, straw, fodder, plant litter, small grains corn, soybeans, sod, and used harvesting machinery.

A total of 10 states, including the five just added to the list, are now under Federal quarantine for cereal leaf beetle infestations. States previously placed under the Federal quarantine are: Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

One of the world's major destroyers of small grains, the cereal leaf beetle was first identified in the U.S. in 1962 in Berrien county.

It takes 300,000 hemlock seeds to make a pound.

building, Paw Paw.

Secretary Harry Foster said the crop situation and an apparently favorable market situation will be discussed. Also up for discussion will be problems stemming from an anticipated major increase in the use of mechanical harvesters this season.

NOW IS THE TIME

HAM OPERATOR: Handicapped by arthritis, Carl Jones of rural Gobles transmits messages on his amateur radio equipment for his own enjoyment and to help others. He and his wife handle messages for servicemen and their families. (Staff photo)

Gobles Radio Ham Helping Others

By ALICE HARRIS
Paw Paw Bureau

GOBLES — Carl Jones of rural Gobles is a man with a lot of time on his hands or as he likes to say "A man with time because of his hands."

Jones was a skilled tool and die maker until 1954 when he began to suffer from arthritis in his hands and gradually lost the use of them. He also suffers stiffness in both legs and in his back, which makes it almost impossible for him to work.

Despite his handicap, Jones has set up an amateur radio station in his home and daily talks with many ham radio operators throughout the area. He holds a technical license for operation of his station which broadcasts on a six meter band.

The six meter band limits the distance which he can broadcast, but Jones explains he could never qualify for a more advanced license because the stiffness of his hands limits the number of words he could transmit in Morse code. Morse code operation at 15 words per minute is necessary to obtain what is known as a general license which would enable him to broadcast on a higher frequency.

Jones uses his amateur radio station both to entertain himself and to help others. Both he and his wife, Helen, who is also a ham operator, belong to MARS, the Military-Air Force Radio Service, which transmits messages to servicemen overseas and on this continent.

transmits it to another ham operator. The message is then passed on across the country until it reaches its destination. Another way in which Jones and his wife work to help other people in the area is through the area "weather net" which is broadcast each Monday evening at 8 p.m. by Mrs. Jones to test the network.

The weather net is set up under the civil defense program and is broadcast for all amateur radio operators in this area. In case of a tornado warning or severe weather conditions, members of the weather net are ready to broadcast special instructions to other operators.

Jones operates his ham radio under the call letters K8NFA for voice and K8 for Morse code while his wife's call letters are K8ZWR.

Byker Says Rights Panel Becoming 'Gestapo-Like'

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, Thursday charged that the Civil Rights Commission is usurping power at such a fast rate that "it won't be long before the commission and its zealous bureaucrafts will be in complete charge of our public and private lives."

Calling the agency "Gestapo-like," Byker said the commission "already has taken unto itself more power than the governor, the Legislature or any other political entity that, unlike the commission itself, must answer to the voter.

"For instance, the Civil Rights Commission — not the State Administrative Board or State Highway Department — has the final say as to whether a highway contractor shall be awarded a bid," he charged.

He also cited a recent letter calling for sensitivity training in Michigan schools.

"The Civil Rights Commission has no business meddling in the curriculum of Michigan schools, the former teacher said.

Recalling that the Legislature recently authorized a personnel increase of 50 employees, Byker said, "As far as I am concerned, that is just 50 more bureaucrats to meddle in places where they don't belong."

Kennedy Takes Seat In Senate

Slips Quietly Into Routine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward M. Kennedy, his face red-dened, the skin around his eyes puffed, walked back into the Senate chamber to reclaim his front row desk on the Democratic side of the aisle.

"Come in, Ted," said Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. "You're right back where you belong."

With those words, Kennedy Thursday slipped quietly back into the routine of his position as Senate whip, his party's assistant leader.

He had not been seen on Capitol Hill since a July 18 auto accident in which a young woman riding in his car was killed.

Throughout the day, dozens of his colleagues—one after the other—reached down to shake his hand, drape an arm around his shoulder, whisper an encouraging word in his ear.

Before hand, on the Senate's white marble steps, Kennedy, inching his way through clutching newsmen and tourists, had answered the question everyone had tried to ask:

"No, he would not under any circumstances seek the presidency in 1972 and, yes, his decision was irrevocable. And yes, he was glad to be back."

HAPPY HE'S BACK

Inside the chamber, past the line of Capitol policemen who ran interference for him at times, Kennedy slouched in his chair. For more than an hour, at one point, he folded and unfolded and refolded a ship of paper.

Later, after a series of votes marking the first time since the membership was increased to 100 that all senators were present for a roll call, he again talked briefly with newsmen.

Kennedy said he had been inclined not to seek the presidential nomination even before the accident which killed 28-year-old Mary Jo Kopechne and the controversy resulting from his failure to report the incident to police for more than eight hours.

Enough explanations had been made, he said, and he would issue no others.

DIRECTS VOTES

Through most of the day, Kennedy was at Mansfield's side, directing party-line votes on tax issues that brought a significant victory to the Senate's Democratic leaders as the Nixon administration's bid to extend the surtax for a full year was turned back.

The surtax was extended for only six months and a Senate aide commented: "It was Kennedy's strategy that worked today. He wanted to link extension of the surtax to broad tax reform and now it looks as though that is exactly what will happen."

When the voting was over and the debate had returned to deployment of an antiballistic missile system, Kennedy visited his two Senate offices.

Both are filled with dozens of photographs of other Kennedys, paintings of the sea and ship models made by seven-year-old Edward M. Kennedy Jr., from hoards, bottle caps and 10-penny nails.

"No, this isn't a bad day at all," a Kennedy secretary replied to a question.

"As a matter of fact," said another, "it's about the happiest day we've had for a long while."

Alleged Bookie Is Arrested

others could be charged as a result of this investigation as it is still continuing."

LIST OF NAMES

"We have a pretty good list of names of who have been involved," the sheriff added. "It's quite amazing."

Jewell said the list came from the paraphernalia seized and other sources. He declined to identify any of the persons whose names appeared on the list pending further investigation.

The sheriff said persons placing bets would telephone information to a central point first and then go to the hotel lobby to deposit bets.

Jewell said he and detectives Ronald Immoos, Robert Kimmerly and Boyd Umphrey from the sheriff's department and two state police agents who were not identified arrested Genovese. A warrant, he said, had been obtained from the Fifth District court.

The sheriff said he forced his way into the house through the front door when no response was received to a command to open up. According to Jewell, Genovese was alone at the time of his arrest.

Chief Deputy Jewell and Benton Harbor Chief McClaran were heading toward the hotel at the same time the other officers moved in at the Genovese house.

A warrant for the raid in the hotel was issued by the Sixth District court which covers Benton Harbor and St. Joseph.

Auto Sinks; Occupants Leave Scene

UNION PIER — State police at the New Buffalo post this morning were attempting to learn the identity of occupants of an auto that went off a road and into the Galien river near here.

Troopers said a passerby about 11:30 p.m. Thursday, reported the auto partially submerged in the river off Union Pier road, about two miles east of here in Three Oaks township. The occupants had left the scene, troopers said.

According to officers, the driver apparently lost control on a curve by the river. The 1969 model auto, reported submerged to a depth of about the back seat, had Illinois license plates, officers said.

DA Asks Kopechne Inquest

James A. Boyle, He presided at Kennedy's arraignment a week ago, when the senator pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident and received the minimum jail sentence of two months, suspended on probation for a year.

Miss Kopechne was trapped in Kennedy's car when it plunged off a narrow bridge into a tidal pool on Chappaquiddick Island. Dr. Donald R. Mills, the district medical examiner, pronounced her death due to drowning.

Dr. Mills said he reported the death to Dinis' office, and reached an agreement that no autopsy was needed.

He said later that he was convinced an autopsy would make no change in his finding that the girl's death was caused by drowning.

Critics of the senator have expressed dissatisfaction with his explanation of why he left the scene of the accident without reporting it to the police until the following morning.

CAN'T BE EXPLAINED

In an interview Thursday night on the television program "The CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite," Ted Sorensen, a Kennedy adviser, said that as the senator himself had declared "his conduct that night is inexplicable."

"His conduct during those hours after the accident was fully summed up in the most humiliating kind of language in his presentation," Sorensen said. He referred to a telecast in which Kennedy asked his Massachusetts constituents to say whether he should quit the Senate.

"He would agree with you that he should have gone and gotten help that night now that he looks back on it," Sorensen said. "Of course he should have."

Interviewer Robert Shaker asked Sorensen why Kennedy crossed from his hotel in Edgartown back to Chappaquiddick to make a call to his lawyer the morning after the accident.

"Why didn't he call directly from the hotel?" Shaker asked.

"I'm told," Sorensen replied, "that the only telephone in the hotel is one of those that's out in the lobby. There's no booth. There's no privacy whatsoever. One does not normally call his lawyer from such a telephone."

Shaker then asked what Kennedy's companions—Paul Markham, former U.S. attorney at Boston, and his cousin Paul Gargan—"were doing when Senator Kennedy decided to risk his life by jumping in the water and swimming across the channel. Did they try to dissuade him?"

"Apparently they had no chance to dissuade him," Sorensen said.

"Was he fully clothed when he did this?"

"I don't think he had shoes on."

In his own telecast after the accident Kennedy said, "I regard as indefensible the fact that I did not report the accident to the police immediately. I was overcome, I am frank to say, by a jumble of emotion—grief, fear, doubt, torture, panic, confusion, exhaustion and shock."

Valentine Rites Held

Funeral services for Leon Valentine, 78, Concord street, Benton township, were held Thursday at 1 p.m. in the New Paradise Baptist church.

Casket bearers were James O. Martin, Emmett Shaw, Henry Burton, Otis King, George Williams and Willis King Sr.

Burial was in Crystal Springs cemetery.

The Finch funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

NEW BUFFALO — Funeral services for Mrs. Walter (Gladys) Neruda, 57, 33 South North street, New Buffalo, were held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the New Buffalo Bible Baptist church.

Casket bearers were Earl Grahl, Dennis Chapman, Kenneth Baker, Eugene Taylor, Carl Franklin and Harold Schram.

Burial was in Pine Grove cemetery.

The Smith funeral home, New Buffalo, was in charge of arrangements.

Herbert Kaitschuck

THREE OAKS — The body of a Three Oaks area man, Herbert C. Kaitschuck, 60, was found Thursday evening in his home.

Dr. Joseph Rambo of Bridgman, a Berrien county medical examiner, said death was caused by a self-inflicted bullet wound from a .22 caliber rifle.

Louis Lake, Three Oaks police chief, and state police from the New Buffalo post found the body in a bedroom after being called to the home at route 2, Three Oaks, by a neighbor who hadn't seen Kaitschuck since Tuesday. Kaitschuck on Tuesday returned home after undergoing surgery in Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

Mr. Kaitschuck was born Feb. 12, 1909, in Naper, Neb., the son of Emil B. and Charlotte Wolff Kaitschuck. He came to Three Oaks in 1932 and had been engaged in farming.

Survivors include two brothers, Bernard of Chicago and Donald of Franklin Park, Ill.; and two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Madden of Chicago and Mrs. Florence Snow of Skokie, Ill.

The body was to be taken today from the Connelly-Noble funeral home in Three Oaks to the Hornburg and Son funeral home at 8400 South Ashland, Chicago, where funeral services will be held on Monday. Burial will also take place in Chicago.

Decision Is Delayed Voluntary Deductions Are Urged

Charged with embezzlement, suspended Berrien county sheriff's deputy David Hanner faced examination in Fifth District court yesterday.

Judge John Hammond delayed a decision in the case until he has had a chance to review the testimony. The judge must decide whether to dismiss the case or bind the deputy over to circuit court to face a charge of embezzlement.

In testimony yesterday, David Hampton, 19, of 609 West Marquette Woods road, St. Joseph, said that he had paid Hanner $300 in cash around July 1, 1969, for a 1961 Thunderbird.

The car is one found abandoned near St. Joseph the first of the year.

Undersheriff Edward Sanders testified that he had never authorized Hanner to sell the car, as is the established practice in such matters.

Julius Granke of Crystal Springs service station testified to his part in filling out forms requesting a title transfer of the secretary of state's office, saying that he accepted Hanner's word as a policeman in regard to details of the case.

Granke, who testified that he had helped the sheriff's department dispose of abandoned cars previously, admitted that the car was not in his custody when he signed the title forms.

Granke added that he never saw the car.

In making the announcement July 19, of Hanner's arrest, Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell said that the deputy, who has served two years with the department, had been suspended until the case is settled.

Hanner, who lives at 2776 Southfield street, St. Joseph, remains free on his own recognizance.

Among the 10 witnesses called by the prosecution yesterday were a number of officers of the sheriff's department and other persons connected with the case.

Judo Club Buys Land In Lincoln

Don Wickham, president of the Seinan Judo club of Southwestern Michigan, announced today purchase of 4.5 acres in Lincoln township as the site of a new club headquarters.

Wickham said the land is located off Wilson drive.

The 4.5 acres is more than the club will need for its building and parking and the rest of the plot will be offered to civic groups to develop into a park.

Judo started in the Twin Cities in an abandoned store on State street in St. Joseph and when the building was razed under urban renewal the club moved to the second floor of the A. B. Morse building.

Wickham said judo is a fast-growing sport — there are 135 members in the club here — and a new headquarters should open up the opportunity for many more to participate in the activity.

ride after they refused.

In one case the cycle rider reportedly became unfriendly after his offer was refused and said: "What's the matter. Do you think I'm the killer?"

The man then reportedly sped away after being assured by the coed that she was not suspicious.

With the official entry of the Michigan State Police as official coordinators of the multi-agency investigation, detailed information of tips and leads became more scarce.

Along with the report from the four coeds, authorities looked into a lead from Cincinnati, where authorities held a Michigan man they said was arrested with a number of credit cards belonging to Michigan women.

TIPS IMPROVE

State Police Director Frederick Davids told newsmen Thursday that the quality of the tips had improved. He indicated progress was being made in the probe.

Davids spoke at news conference at which he said reports of dissension among the various agencies were not true.

However Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas Harvey rapped Gov. William Milliken for invoking the state law and taking over the investigation. He accused the governor of acting without consulting county authorities.

"Instead the governor had to make a big show of it," Harvey said. "As far as I'm concerned the governor could have been a little more decent about it and called law enforcement agencies in Washtenaw County."

However, Harvey said dissension among the working investigators had not existed and said he would make every effort to keep the relationship intact.

RECORDED INTERVIEW

A spokesman for the governor's office said "There will be no immediate comment" regarding Harvey's remarks.

Harvey's remarks were made in a recorded interview with Doris Jarrell of WOOD radio and television, Grand Rapids.

In another development Gov. William Milliken renewed efforts to bring the FBI into the case on an active basis. His earlier request was turned down by federal officials who said the FBI can enter cases only when there is evidence that a federal law had been violated. Milliken said he would provide more information.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., joined other elected officials in offering a basis for FBI involvement.

He pointed to a year-old case in which the body of a young Toledo, Ohio, girl was found in Michigan. She had been strangled with an electric cord, as had one of the victims in Washtenaw County.

County Prosecutor William Delhey said Thursday he didn't think the case was related to the seven Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti killings.

Find Body Of Veteran In Big Lake

Recovered Mile North Of St. Joe

St. Joseph Coast Guardsmen recovered the body of Matthew "Steve" Morse, 23, yesterday afternoon, ending a three-day search for the Vietnam veteran who drowned after being swept off the north pier.

The body was spotted by persons aboard the yacht Stevie-Sue out of South Haven about a mile north of St. Joseph and a mile out from the shore. They radioed the St. Joseph Coast Guard station which dispatched a boat to recover the body.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Morse of 2515 Thayer drive, St. Joseph.

Morse was among three persons who lost their lives Monday as gale-like winds pushed high waves across breakwaters at Holland, St. Joseph and Michigan City, Ind.

OTHERS RESCUED

Three other persons were washed into the lake by the waves here but all were rescued.

Morse was hampered by the combat jacket he was wearing and his heavy combat boots. An excellent swimmer, he was seen struggling to get out of the cumbersome jacket when he disappeared under the waves. He was washed off the North Pier.

He was a meteorologist in the U. S. Army and spent 10 months in Vietnam, mostly in the Mekong delta area. He was wounded and was decorated for bravery.

Born June 22, 1946 in Benton Harbor he attended local schools and graduated from Jensen school, Scottsdale, Ariz. in 1966. That fall he entered the army and was sent to Vietnam in January, 1968. He was discharged Oct. 21, 1968.

PLANNED EDUCATION

He had planned to resume his education this fall.

He is survived by his parents, a sister, Mrs. Fred (Deanne) Mullenix of Summerville, S.C., a brother, John at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Korlikowski, St. Joseph; his maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Frank Borst, Berrien Springs; paternal grandfather, Harold Morse, Fairview.

Private funeral services will be held at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, from Korlikowski-Starks Funeral home, St. Joseph, with cremation to follow at North Shore Memory Gardens. Rev. Sidney Short, pastor of the First United Methodist church, St. Joseph, will officiate.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p.m. today.

Farewell Party Honors R. S. Johnson

Approximately 75 persons attended a farewell party last night for Robert S. Johnson, 47, who resigned his position as Berrien county chief juvenile probation officer. The resignation was effective today.

The party was held at the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge, Niles avenue, St. Joseph. An informal talk was given by Probate Judge Ronald H. Lange and farewell gifts were presented to Johnson.

Judge Lange said he and several others have asked Johnson to retain the position, but so far without success. Johnson, a 14-year veteran of the department resigned in July for a lack of adequate facilities and staff.

He is the fourth veteran juvenile probation officer to leave the 11-member department in recent months. The others are George Westfield, Robert Roth and Sammie Rodgers, who left for better jobs.

Frank Poorman of Buchanan, chairman of the Berrien county board of supervisors, who has just returned from a convention in Portland, Ore., for the National Association of Counties, said "it will be a long time before we find someone as conscientious as Bob Johnson."

Girls, Boys Operate Service Station

Hartford Family Pitches In

Pretty Faces At Gas Pump

By SANDRA DRAKE
Staff Writer

HARTFORD — The last excuse for being late that the seven children in the Jack and Vivian DeMorrow family can use is that they ran out of gas. The three teenage girls, Sue DeMorrow, 17, and sisters Beverly Newland, 19, and Merry Newland, 18, manage and operate the Sunoco service station at the I-94 interchange at Hartford. They opened for business last Friday.

EVERYBODY HELPS Making the whole venture a family affair, the girls are joined by the rest of the family, Jerry, 15, Kenneth, 14, David, 13 and Keith, 11, who do ground maintenance work around the station.

Mr. and Mrs. DeMorrow add to the ranks. They hold leases on the Sunoco and the Gulf stations in Hartford and supervise the training of the girls.

Started expressly for the purpose of giving the girls jobs, Mrs. DeMorrow said the station idea came about because in a town as small as Hartford (2,300 population) there weren't enough jobs for girls.

"Besides, the girls are all very capable and efficient and it's different," she added.

Beverly, the manager, who works from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., spent last year as a freshman at Central Michigan university and plans on taking classes at Lake Michigan college part time this fall so she can continue managing the station.

She said the girls can do light repair work and maintenance. "We can do grease jobs, oil changes, fix fan belts, change tires and for larger repairs, we'll call Dad at the Gulf station," she stated.

Jack DeMorrow gave each of the girls training in minor repair work and the three sisters spent almost six months under his supervision at the family's Gulf station.

Two of the girl attendants, Linda Bulat, 17, and Mona Brookfield, 18, both of Hartford, hold other jobs and work at the gas station for extra money.

GOING TO COLLEGE Linda, who works at the drug store in Hartford, said she needed the money so she could start college this fall. She'll be a freshman at Central Michigan university.

Mona, who's used to being around cars because her dad, Robert, is an automobile dealer, also works on the summer school migrant program. She'll enter Southwestern Michigan college in September. All the girls graduated from Hartford high school.

"Business has been real good so far," Beverly said. "The station was closed months at a time before we got here so considering this is the first week of operation, everything is great."

Sunoco's district manager, John Marzolf, told the DeMorrow's the idea was tremendous. The oil company is putting in a snack bar for the girls to operate at the station.

The company also is sending Beverly to Detroit in August for a two-week managerial training session. Her mother is helping her with the books until then.

Merry says that most of the male customers just laugh when they see a teenage girl come to wait on them. "Most of the women in town keep coming back. I guess they're impressed because we give the exterior of their car real good service."

"Of course the older folks are a little surprised at first," she said.

NOT MONOTONOUS Working at the station is pretty much of a departure from regular female work, Linda said. "It's not monotonous and we get a chance to meet people from all over the states."

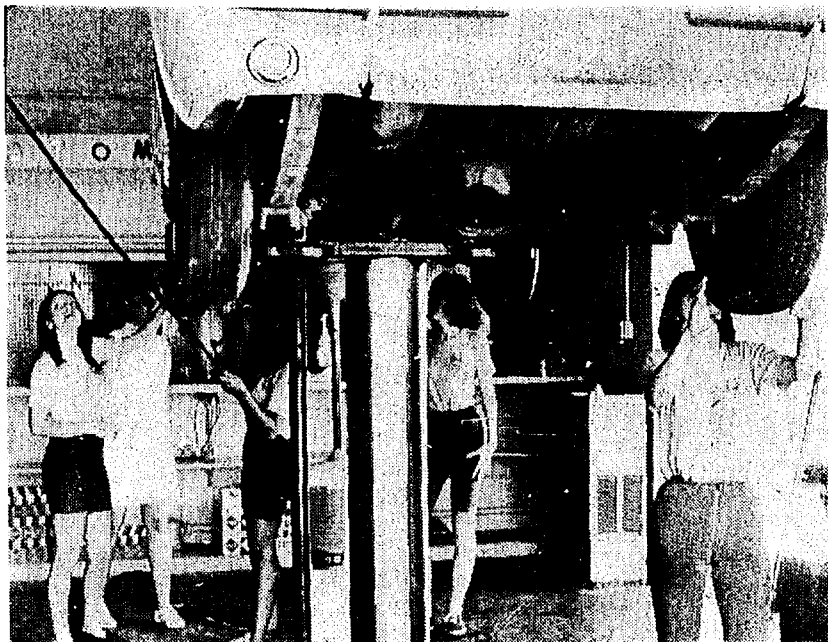

The girls, who start out at 11 a.m., are joined by John Anthony, 18, who works from 6 p.m. to midnight. "We have my husky oldest son here during the day in case there's a problem," Mrs. DeMorrow said.

All the girls agree that the job is fun. They pitched in this

The girls plan on sticking with the job even through the school year.

"We're going to try and handle a unique operation here," Beverly said. Plans are under way for a fruit stand to be built at the station by Hillier Orchard fruit growers of Hartford.

"These kids just don't know when to quit," Mrs. DeMorrow said. "My girls will go home and help with supper and house

Women Disrupt Classroom

WARREN (AP) — Nine young women were arrested Thursday after they allegedly burst into a Macomb County Community College classroom shouting obscenities and harassed students taking a final exam.

The women, ranging in age from 18 to 23, were distributing literature for women's rights and Students for a Democratic Society to the 30 students in the class, according to Del Corey, administrative assistant to the dean.

The pamphlets bore such slogans as "Women rise up" and "Bring the war home."

STUDENT RITTEN Police said the women entered the room shouting and blocked the door. One student said he was pushed into a chair and hit in the face a few times, while another said he was shoved against a wall and bitten.

"One girl went on a long harangue regarding atrocities in Vietnam and women's rights," Corey said. "She used the four-letter word which is most famous—regularly."

"I asked them to leave and they refused," he added. "Then, three minutes later they left singing, 'Work hard, study hard, get ahead and kill.'"

Warren police, called by the campus security guard, arrested the women as they got into a green van parked in a school parking lot.

All nine pleaded not guilty before Warren District Judge Roy N. Gruenberg and requested jury trials.

FREE ON BOND Charged with being disorderly persons and released on $500 bond were Rachel Bishop, 23; Ellen Borison, 18; Lynn Ray Garvin, 19; and Karen Selin, 21, all of Ann Arbor.

Also charged with being disorderly but free on $1,000 personal bonds are Elizabeth Gilbert, 18 of Farmington; Ann Marie Hathaway, 22, of Detroit; Leonore Kalor, 21, of Ann Arbor; and Karen Latimer, 22, of East Lansing.

Purple Heart Day Proclaimed

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Aug. 7 as Purple Heart Day in Michigan, noting that on that date in 1782, Gen. George Washington established what is now the oldest decoration of U.S. armed forces. Milliken said that Washington, in creating the medal, said "The road to glory is a free country and a patriot army is thus open to all."

No Decision Is Reached On Capitol

Host Of Bills Signed, Rejected By Gov. Milliken

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has vetoed a $242,000 appropriation to establish a Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine.

At the same time, the governor was reported to have had second thoughts about a $4 million appropriation for planning and initial construction of a new State Capitol.

The governor was expected to approve the $51.6 million capital outlay bill on Thursday. It includes the planning and construction grant for the Capitol. But he declined to take action, apparently to further consider the matter, sources said.

He has until Aug. 8 to act on the matter.

Milliken also rejected a $100,000 appropriation for a hook-up between three educational television stations, permitting them to air each other's programs.

Milliken turned thumbs down on the proposal, he said, because he would like to have the hook-up include more of the state's educational television stations.

"I intend to sign (the bill) establishing a School of Osteopathy to be located on an existing campus of a state university with an existing school or college of medicine as determined by the State Board of Education," the governor said.

"However," he added, "the assignment of the school of osteopathy, the acceptance by the board of control of the designated university and the development of program plans will require a considerable period of time and it is unlikely that such a program will be under way during the current fiscal year."

The osteopathic college and the educational television hook-up appropriations were included in the $293.3 million higher education bill.

Milliken used his powers to eliminate specific items before approving the higher education measure.

SIGNED INTO LAW He also signed into law a measure authorizing expenditures of $58.3 million for general government operation, including the legislature, judiciary, executive office, and the offices of the attorney general, secretary of state, treasury, administrations, civil services and civil rights.

He also vetoed a bill to raise the filing fee from $4 to $5.25 in Detroit common pleas court civil actions. The additional $1.25 was to be credited to the courts' bailiffs' retirement fund.

Other bills signed by Milliken would:

—Amend election laws to require the wording of any ballot proposition to be such that a "yes" vote would be in favor of the proposal.

—Change the name of county boards of supervisors to commissioners.

—Prohibit operation of a

Robbers Get $394 In Berrien, Cass

Tavern Patrons Are Forced To Give Up Wallets

Two taverns 10 miles apart in Berrien and Cass counties were robbed in quick succession late Thursday by gunmen. Later, a service station in Benton township was reportedly robbed by three men, one wielding a switchblade knife. Loot in the robberies was about $394.

Cass county sheriff's deputies first reported that the Timberline Inn, Indian Lake, Dowagiac, and its five patrons were robbed of about $180 at 11 p.m.

Robbery victims told deputies that two men, each holding a pistol, entered the bar through the front door. While one took money out of the cash register, the other had each patron take out his wallet.

ESCAPE ON FOOT After both had collected the money, they fled on foot. One was carrying a long-barreled, shiny pistol believed to be a .22 cal., the other a short-barreled, possibly 32 cal. pistol, police said.

One-half hour later, three men, all armed with pistols, entered Letke's Hide-away, 6410 River road, Sodus, and went through the same robbery procedure. Berrien county sheriff's Deputy Sgt. John Gillespie reported.

Tavern owner George Letke was ordered to put the money in the cash register into a paper bag, and the five bar patrons were told to put their wallets on the bar.

After they were finished, one of the trio held his gun on the robbery victims while the other two went outside and shot out a tire on each of the six cars parked by the tavern, police said.

Then they fled with about $150.

Because two of the men apparently fit the same description in both robberies, Berrien and Cass county sheriff deputies are conducting a joint investigation. Police are investigating the possibility that there was a third man in the Timberline Inn robbery driving a get-away car.

The third robbery of the night occurred at Owens East-Oil Co. service station, 806 East Napier avenue, Benton township, at about 1 a.m. this morning.

MONEY DEMANDED Service station attendant Ron Christopher, 19, 1325 Ilurd avenue, Benton Harbor, told township police that three men walked from behind the station. One pulled out a switchblade knife, and demanded money, he said.

Christopher said he gave them $94 from the cash register, then they forced him into the restroom and fled.

Township police are investigating whether the three hold-up men are the same as those in the previous robberies.

motorcycle by a person who has not received a special license indicating successful passage of a special written and road test for motorcycle operation.

—License industrial waste haulers to prevent indiscriminate dumping of waste oils.

The council approved the redefining of lots on Shore drive in Sunset Shores owned by Peter Kerhulas. The three 100 foot lots will be replotted to four 75-foot lots.

A special assessment district for the Chicago street sewer extension was approved. A public hearing on the sewer extension on Chicago street from Detroit street to Washington street will take place within 30 days.

The council voted to back Acme disposal company of Niles, the city's trash pick-up service, in their complaint against the disposal service, division of AMI Metals, Inc., of Michigan City for infringing on Acme's exclusive city trash pick-up rights.

Petitioners Want Civilian Board

DETROIT (AP) — State Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, said Thursday that 1,000 volunteers will seek to collect 50,000 signatures this weekend on petitions calling for a civilian trial board empowered to discipline or fire Detroit policemen.

Young said 20,000 signatures have been collected so far, short of the 34,500 needed to put the trial board proposal on the ballot in November.

Wounded Coloma Girl Recovering

A 13-year-old Coloma girl struck in the face and seriously wounded by an accidental shotgun blast July 9 is convalescing at her home after being released from St. Joseph Memorial hospital recently.

Linda Scheffler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Scheffler, Park road, Coloma, had been listed in serious condition after the mishap. She left the hospital July 23.

Miss Scheffler released a letter to this newspaper expressing "heartfelt thanks to all the many people who showed their concern over me during my stay in the hospital."

She was injured when her mother placed the 12-gauge shotgun on a gun rack. The weapon discharged as her mother turned around, the father said.

Pellets from the gun went through a screen door and traveled about 20 feet to where Miss Scheffler was swinging in a hammock outside the house, sheriff's deputies said at the

LEAGUE OPENER SATURDAY ON FLINT ASTROTURF

Hawks Will Attempt To Tame Wildcats

Bubbling over with confidence from head coach Frank Schnese right on down to the last sub on the team, the Southwestern Michigan Hawks embark by bus Saturday afternoon for their first Midwestern Football League confrontation of the season.

The Hawks, buoyed by their impressive win over league member Detroit Cowboys in last Saturday's exhibition game at Buchanan, face the Flint Wildcats on the astroturf of Atwood Stadium in Flint at 7:30 p.m.

Flint got its feet wet last Sunday when it dropped a 17-13 decision in an exhibition game with the Lansing All-Stars.

Schnese announced that his Hawks are in excellent physical and mental conditions with one exception. Dave Dohn, a 262-pound offensive guard from Benton Harbor, is a doubtful starter. Dohn suffered a bruised rib at Buchanan.

No other changes are planned for either the offensive or defensive units by Schnese, who was well pleased with the performance of his club against Detroit.

"We've made some adjustments on our pass defense, but not in personnel," said Schnese. "Our coverage on short passes was bad because our weakside safety wasn't adjusting quick enough."

Quarterbacks Bob Puma and Jim Stouffer were busy during this week's drills making some adjustments, too. "Films showed that our quarterbacks weren't staying in the pocket on our pass patterns," said Schnese. "This is a typical first game mistake because a college quarterback scrambles more."

Most of Stouffer's problems stemmed from the fact that he missed two weeks of practice prior to the Detroit game because of a side injury.

"Timing-wise, the backs were away a head of Stouffer," Schnese explained. "But he's gotten back into the swing of things and has been looking good."

The Wildcats, with a 7-5 record last season, were in contention for the league chamionship until the final three weeks of the season.

But coach Len Christman lost several key players from that team and has had to fill the holes with young, inexperienced players.

The Wildcats lost quarterback Mack Segal and replaced him with strong-armed Ira Edwards who threw passes of 76 and 10 yards for both of the Wildcats' touchdowns Sunday.

Target for the bomb was flanker John Maynie while back Leroy Scott was on the receiving end of the shortie.

Rick Johnson and Ken Duncan are the setbacks and both have an abundance of speed with Johnson the top ground gainer against Lansing.

The Wildcats lost two players from their defensive unit but have added Jim Knoff, an all-league performer who played for Dayton last season.

The front four is big and strong with Bob Thraut, a 245-pound all-league tackle last season as the key man. Bill Hayes (296) and Bob Alexander (276) give the Wildcats size.

Tommy Bolt Strikes With 'Lightning' 66

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — "I just wanted to show those young cats I was playing with I can play too," said crusty Tommy Bolt.

Bolt showed not only George Archer and Johnny Pott, his playing partners, but everyone else in the elite Westchester Classic field Thursday that just because he has mellowed some at 51, his game hasn't.

The tempestuous Tommy struck the tight par 72 Westchester Country Club Course like lightning with five consecutive birdies for a 66 and a one shot lead after the first round of the $250,000 tournament, the richest in golf.

Australian Bruce Devlin and unheralded Bert Greene were one shot back at 67.

Another stroke back, at 68, were Bruce Crampton, another Australian; South African Harold Henning; Paul Harney, Terry Dill, Fred Marti and Bob Lunn.

Long-hitting Tom Weiskopf was in a group at 69 which included Frank Beard, Tony Jacklin, Jim Colbert, R. H. Sikes, Bobby Nichols and Marty Fleckman.

Fourteen players came in with 70s, including Ray Floyd, Gary Player, Tommy Aaron and Tom Shaw.

Polt and Archer posted 73s.

Bolt, legendary for his explosive temper as much as for his picture-perfect swing, said he gets just as mad as ever although he can't remember when he last wrapped a club around a tree.

The reigning U.S. Seniors champion stayed in the fairways and spent little time on the greens. Playing the back nine first on the hilly 6,677-yard layout, he began his birdie blitz at the par 5 18th with a six-foot, 10-inch putt for a birdie 4 at the par 3 first, a 10-footer at the par 4 second, a 13-footer at the par 4 third and ran out his string with a two footer for a birdie 3 at the fourth.

He dropped another birdie at seven and finished up with a 30-inch for a birdie 4 at nine and a 30 coming in. His only bogey came at his opening hole, the par 3 10th, when he pitched his second shot over the green and missed a 10-foot putt.

"I feel great. I'm taking care of myself," said Bolt. "I've been using a 10-pound weight belt and three pound anklets for practice. When you take those off you can run around the course."

Although he hasn't won an official tournament since 1961, Bolt has collected nearly $11,000 this year. His earnings for his 23-year career total $292,000 31st on the all-time list. His best finish this year was a tie for sixth at Dorset.

"Money doesn't mean as much to me as it does to a lot of those other fellows," said Bolt, who punctuates most of his comments with "baby" or "partner" and his autographs with a lightning flash.

He doesn't need any props anymore, either.

"You can forget about that little card," he said.

Bolt referred to a memo he carried around when he won the U.S. Open in 1958. It read, "Don't try and change things you can't change."

At the moment, Bolt doesn't have to.

EXTRA OBSTACLE: Jack Nicklaus hits shot past his caddy as he blasts out of sand trap on 18th hole in first round of $250,000 Westchester Classic, the world's richest golf tournament. Nicklaus finished the day with a 71, five strokes behind leader Tommy Bolt. (AP Wirephoto)

A four-run rally by North Lincoln in the seventh fell just short as Benton Harbor emerged with a 7-6 win in the 11-year-old all-star game at Union Park Thursday night.

Mike Howard led the winners with two doubles and a single, Larry Bell had a triple and two singles and Mike Norwood slammed two doubles. Johnson was the winning pitcher.

John Bicanich had two doubles and Cory Benford a double and single for North Lincoln. Bicanich was the loser.

North Lincoln had a 2-0 lead going into the last of the third, but Benton Harbor scored seven times in the next four innings to make it 7-2 going into the seventh.

Kalamazoo Nips North Lincoln 4-3

By TURK PIERCE

PORTAGE — North Lincoln, champion of the Southwest Connie Mack league, is fighting for survival today in the district tournament at McCamley Field here after a 4-3 loss to the Kalamazoo Blues Thursday.

Kalamazoo scored the winning run in the fifth inning after North Lincoln, shackled on two scratch hits the first four innings by winner Ron Schwenn, rallied for three runs in the top of the fifth to tie the score at 3-3.

North Lincoln will meet Mendon at 3 p.m. today. Portage, which downed Mendon 7-3, will face Kalamazoo at 5 p.m. in the double-elimination tournament.

"If we had won this one we'd have been in good shape," said a disappointed Wes Knapp, the North Lincoln manager. "I think that Kalamazoo is the toughest team here. They sure can hit," Knapp continued, referring to the eight solid hits and several line drive outs Kalamazoo collected off loser Chris Knapp.

In addition to the hitting, aggressive baserunning played a big part in the Kalamazoo win. In the first inning, with one out, Jack Griffin and Mike Ovington singled, ending up at second and third on Ovington's hit. Don Ampersee, who later drove in the winning run, hit a pop to second. With the infield playing in, Jim McGath had to turn away from the infield to catch the ball, and stumbled slightly. Griffin broke for the plate, and was ruled safe on a close play. Ovington then scored on a hit by Gary Johnson.

Kalamazoo made it 3-0 in the fourth on an unearned run. Johnson was safe on an error. Tim Vanderweele singled and Johnson scored when the hit got by centerfielder Jim Hornus.

Mike Blake led off the North Lincoln fifth with a walk. With one out Mike Robach hit a high chopper down the first baseline. Firstbaseman Ampersee charged down the line to field the ball, but Robach stopped short of a tag. Ampersee then looked for a play at second and Robach ducked around him and reached first safely, being credited with a hit. Craig Kolberg then drove a long shot into the wind that hit the base of the right field wall for a double, scoring one run. The runners had to hold on a groundout, but Dennis Patzer delivered a line hit to center to drive in two runs and tie the score.

The winning run scored in the fifth when Mark Kemple singled, stole second and scored on a two-out hit to center by Ampersee. Shortstop Patzer narrowly missed catching the ball, but it was inches too high and the winning run scored.

Schwenn looked impressive in the win, fanning 11 and yielding only two solid hits. One North Lincoln fan noted that North Lincoln was not used to a pitcher with as much speed as Schwenn had.

Knapp, although tagged for eight hits and hurt by four errors, kept things under control by not walking anyone.

Michigan's first four football opponents, Vanderbilt, Washington, Missouri and Purdue, were not on the Wolverines' schedule last season.

Tigress Wins Yacht Race

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — The first boat to arrive here from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., on the 390-mile Trans-Superior yacht race was announced Thursday to have won the overall championship.

The big winner was The Tigress, the 46-foot, sloop rig, one mast sailboat of George Lyon, Rochester, Mich. It carried a crew of five on the race, plus the skipper.

The Tigress arrived here at 1 a.m. (CDT) Wednesday, more than an hour ahead of the second boat to reach the Duluth-Superior, Wis., harbor. Winners, however, were not declared until handicaps were figured in the calculations.

The Tigress topped Class A. Second in that category was the Shark, skippered by John Pierpont of White Pine, Mich. Third in Class A was the Balkina, James Reid, Sarnia, Ont.

Winners in the other classes were:

Class B: 1, Flying Jenny III, D.B. Snider, Mt. Clemens, Mich. 2, Alexa, Claude Lawrence, Port Huron, Mich. 3, Chinook, Jim Klode, Sheboygan, Wis.

Class C: 1, Vernandi, Fred Melby, Minneapolis, 2, Boomerang II, Stuart Campbell, St. Joseph, Mo. 3, Keeljoy, Robert Wilkie, Savage, Minn.

Class D: 1, Procrastination, Thomas Dawson, Norwalk, Ohio. 2, Cygnus, William Soeterbeir, Duluth. 3, Maria, Harold Zigmund, Grand Rapids, Minn.

'Much Ahead Of Last Year', Schmidt Says

Lions Impressive In Scrimmage

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP)—Coach Joe Schmidt, pleased with the way the Detroit Lions looked during a bone-jarring scrimmage Thursday, said the team is "much ahead of last year" at the corresponding date of the training season.

The team concludes its second full week of practice at Cranbrook School when the players run through a scrimmage Saturday night at the University of Detroit Stadium.

"They're getting a little tired. There was a lot of good hitting on defense, and the pass protection looked good," he said adding that he was particularly impressed with defensive backs Lem Barney and Wayne Rasmussen, plus defensive tackle Alex Karras, defensive end Larry Hand, and linebacker Mike Lucci.

Hand has only been in camp a few days. He ended a series of long salary negotiations when he signed a contract last Friday.

"He earned his keep today," Schmidt said.

Among the more notable injured Lions are Bill Swain, Wayne Walker, and Billy Gambrell.

Swain, a linebacker, has a leg in a cast after pulling a tendon, but it is expected to come off in a few days.

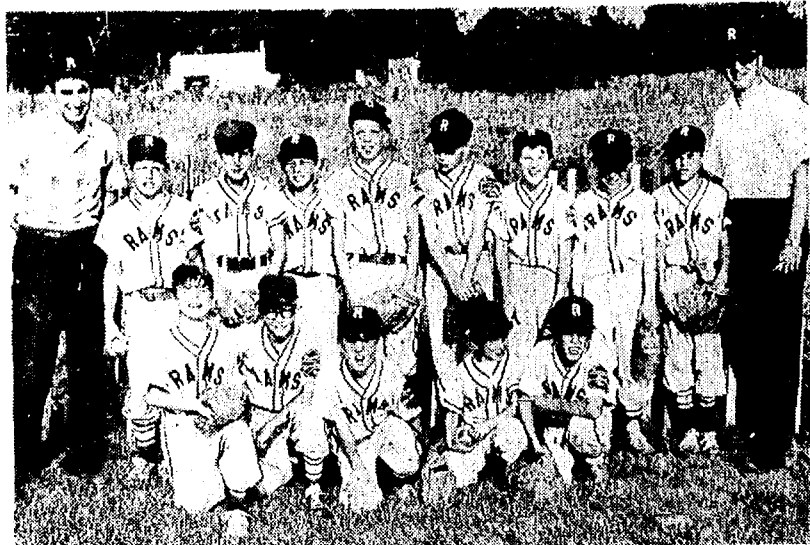

Walker's injury is not serious. The veteran linebacker has a pulled hamstring and isn't expected to be out long.

Gambrell, the 5-foot-10 sure-handed flanker, twisted his back 11 days ago but may be able to play soon.

The other injuries are similar and include mostly pulled muscles.

Schmidt, meanwhile, was to cut six more players from the squad today to get down to the National Football League Aug. 1 deadline of 60. NFL teams must get down to 49 players by Sept. 1, 44 seven days later, then to 40 by Sept. 15 which is six days before the regular season opens at Pittsburgh.

Detroit's first exhibition game is away Aug. 9 against the American Football League's Kansas City Chiefs.

'Old' Boat Turns In Fastest Time

SEATTLE (AP) — Miss Atlas Van Lines of Phoenix, Ariz.—the oldest boat on the unlimited hydroplane circuit this season—was the fastest on Lake Washington Thursday as the big boats roared through their second day of testing for Sunday's Seafair Regatta.

Jim McCormick piloted the Atlas to a 119.469 miles per hour clocking on the 3-mile course.

Time trials that will split $2,500 to the hydros turning the fastest three laps were set to begin Friday morning with the regatta to begin at noon Sunday.

Second fastest performance Thursday was a 113.208 m.p.h. clocking by Myr's Special of Detroit while the Notre Dame of Seattle and Detroit posted a 112.033 m.p.h. speed.

In 1944 a horse called Recognize finished in successive dead heats within five days at Belmont Park.

Female Jockey Invades Detroit Race Course

LIVONIA (AP)—"I don't want to get in the movies, I just want to ride," says Mary Bacon, a part 21-year-old blonde who is expected to become the first woman jockey to compete at a Michigan track.

The 102-pound jockette, who is married to 18-year-old jockey John (Pug) Bacon, arrived at the Detroit Race Course in this suburb Wednesday from Finger Lakes racetrack in Canandaigua, N.Y.

"I think some of the top horsemen in the country are here and I decided I'd like to learn from them," she said. "You don't want to learn wrong."

Mary is familiar with the area. In 1967 and 1968 she taught riding and trained horses at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club outside Detroit. She also spent a year steeplechase racing in England.

"Everyone who's galloped horses wants to ride and my husband rides," she said convincingly. "He taught me everything I know so I thought I'd give it a try."

Her parents, who live in Toledo, Ohio, about an hour drive away, are taking care of the Bacon's 4½-month-old daughter for the time being.

Did the publicity surrounding pioneer women jockeys like Diane Crump, Penny Ann Early, and Barbara Jo Ruben less than a year ago prompt Mary to try to get a jockey's license?

"I was pregnant and couldn't ride," she said. "Otherwise I would have been the first one. I have ridden more horses than most of them."

"I think Diane Crump is the only one who rides much. The others don't ride anymore. I think they all want to get movie contracts."

But Mary's biggest problem during DRC's 90-day meeting will be finding a practical way to be with her husband and daughter. She expects to stay for the entire meeting while her husband goes to Montreal to race at Blue Bonnet Race Track.

"They don't race here on Sunday and they don't race there on Thursday, so that's two days one of us can fly back and forth," she said.

"I think John and I are the only jockey and jockette combination in the country," she added. "We rode one race together at Finger Lakes and they (officials) called us from New York City and told us we couldn't do it. They said a married couple is considered as 'one'."

"The Jockey's Club is trying to get it so we can ride in the same race. But until then John has to go to another track because we just don't get many mounts when we're together."

John was the leading jockey at Blue Bonnet last year with 37 winners, despite being out for 2½ weeks with an injury.

Mary sported a bandage on the bridge of her nose. She had seven stitches as a result of an auto accident enroute to Detroit.

She has ridden in 100 races and won seven so far in her career that began in May.

"I think it's fun, but I hope I make some money out of it all and get some mounts," she said. "That depends on how well people think I ride. . . . It's up to the horsemen."

"I just want to ride horses, that's all. I wish I could ride every race, every day."

Mary said she has been named to ride Saturday.

But where will she get dressed? DRC has no female jockey locker room.

"Here I'll use the first aid room," she smiled. "But they'll have to build a locker room for women because there'll be more girl jockeys all around the country eventually."

Scattered Fighting Reported

Viet War Lull In 7th Week

SAIGON (AP) — The allied commands today reported scattered small clashes in various parts of Vietnam and a total of 128 enemy troops killed as the battlefield lull continued in its seventh week.

The heaviest action was reported by South Vietnamese forces who claimed 77 Viet Cong killed in two days of fighting 110 miles southwest of Saigon.

Other government troops reported 20 of the enemy killed in a fight in the Mekong Delta province of Bac Lieu and 13 in Long An province 20 miles southwest of Saigon.

ENEMY CUT DOWN

The U.S. Command said its forces killed 18 enemy, including six killed in a U.S. Marine ambush of a patrol near the demilitarized zone; seven killed by a helicopter gunship after they fired on the helicopter 30 miles northwest of Saigon, and five killed by 9th Infantry Division troops about 30 miles southwest of Saigon.

Six Marines were wounded in the ambush.

The allied commands also reported 11 enemy shelling attacks between 8 a.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday but said only two of them caused damage or casualties. Two wounded Americans were among the casualties.

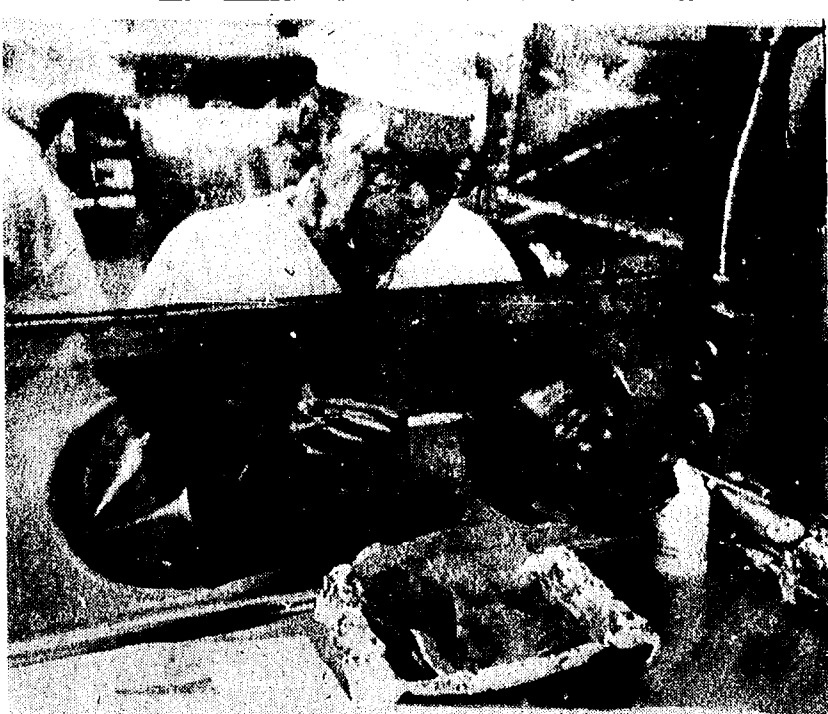

The U.S. Command also revised its published figures on the number of U.S. helicopters lost in the war, raising the total to 2,893. It said 1,254 of these were shot down.

A U.S. military source said the American command may soon abandon the practice of giving code names to its field operations in the northernmost 1st Corps tactical zone. The informant said this would avoid giving a "misleading impression" that U.S. forces are continuing massive sweeps in the five northern provinces.

Field operations now are carried on by smaller units sent out to detect enemy concentrations. In recent weeks, U.S. strategy has shifted from "maximum pressure" on the enemy to "protective reaction," a shift designed chiefly to hold down American casualties, U.S. sources have said.

The policy is one of responding in kind to the enemy on the battlefield, meaning that American forces are sent out in large units only when good intelligence information indicates enemy forces of sufficient size to warrant such operations.

Meanwhile, as 2,750 American troops began embarking today for Okinawa and the United States, the U.S. Command announced that another 950 will leave Saturday, including one of the last two battalions in the country equipped with Hawk anti-aircraft missiles.

Pope Speaks Out For Peace In Visit To Troubled Africa

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Pope Paul VI today pledged to continue his "modest, but affectionate and fair efforts" to secure peace in Nigeria.

Alternating church business and peacemaking, the Roman Catholic pontiff consecrated 12 new bishops for Africa, then in an address to the Ugandan Parliament noted sadly that "in a region of Africa dear to us... there still rages an agonizing conflict."

"We have not only sought to secure goods and medical assistance, impartially and by every means available," the Pope noted in a reference to the Vatican-backed airlift to secessionist Biafra, "but have also tried to apply the remedy of a certain initial reconciliation."

"Up to now we have not succeeded, and this gives us heart-felt pain. But we are resolved to continue our modest but affectionate and fair efforts of persuasion to help heal this fatal dissection."

Introducing the Pope to the members of his Parliament, President Milton Obote of Uganda said he thought the papal visit would provide "new determination and new inspiration to find peace."

"The fervent interest that Your Holiness takes in African affairs," he said, "your constant concern about conflicts in Africa and elsewhere, your relentless prayer for peace in the world, and now your presence in Africa, will, I believe, give men of good will new hope, new determination and new inspiration to strive for peace, stability and racial harmony on this continent and throughout the world."

The consecrations, which took place at an outdoor Mass celebrated with 40 bishops, are the first that a Pope has performed outside Italy in modern times.

Pope Paul exalted the virtues of bishops — "self denial, courage, constancy, wisdom and sacrifice" — but urged the prelates to steer clear of political involvement.

California Trip Slated By Senators

Drug Center To Be Visited

LANSING (AP) — Two members of the Senate Judiciary Committee plan a week-long law enforcement factfinding trip to California later this month, including a tour of Synanon's drug addiction center at Santa Monica.

Chairman Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, said he and Sen. Basil Brown of Highland Park, ranking minority member of the judiciary committee, would leave Monday.

Accompanying them will be Thomas E. Woods, Senate general counsel.

"Many problems affecting law enforcement are still hanging fire before our committee, particularly in regard to the criminal code," Richardson said, referring to a massive revision bill that failed to make it out of committee during the spring legislative session.

"We feel that this study trip is probably the most comprehensive project of this type that the Senate Judiciary Committee has undertaken," he added.

"It is in accord with the new Senate policy of having standing committees study their own problems during the interim and not parceling them out to a proliferation of special committees that frequently fail to deal with the actual problems in legislative form."

Richardson said he and Brown also plan to look into the organization of the office of district attorney in the two major cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco. Other areas of inquiry are California's experiences with wiretapping and eavesdropping and firearms control.

Safety Council Honors Firm

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The National Safety Council has cited the Reynolds Co. plant here for operating 787,037 man-hours without a disabling accident during 1968.

The council's highest award was presented to officials of the extrusion plant Thursday.

State Police Leader Known As 'Cop's Cop'

EAST LANSING (AP) — It is a big jump from a gas station pump jockey to boss man of Michigan State Police.

That is a capsule of the career of Col. Fredrick E. Davids, State Police director, named this week to head investigation of the seven sex slayings in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

Davids actually didn't make it in one step. He joined State Police as a trooper in 1937 at the age of 33 and slowly worked his way up through the ranks to the top job in the department.

"There is nothing ranker in rank than a trooper," observed one veteran State Police officer, "Davids made it the hard way."

You could say Davids had experience in communications and government service before he decided on a police career. A native of Hope, Midland County, he worked for his father at a private telephone exchange and as a substitute rural mail carrier before starting to pump gas — his last civilian job.

State Police troopers would stop in at the gas station for a fillup. They convinced Davids, now 55, he might have a future on the force.

"If he has a soft spot, it is for the troopers," observed one high ranking officer. "He's very softhearted about the men. If a guy makes a mistake, he tries to give him another chance. And it always seems it turns out he's right."

A trooper injury will cause Davids to leave his desk, rush to the hospital to see the man and then his family.

Every now and then he will drive in with a huge load of fresh corn with orders it is to be served to rookies sweating it out through the recruit school.

Davids and his attractive wife, Kathleen, have no children. This could help explain his interest in such groups as the American Legion Boys' State and other youth organizations.

For the same reason, he can be expected to tackle the job of trying to solve the brutal sex murders to protect the daughters of other fathers and mothers.

Four citations for meritorious service and more honorable mentions than you can mention helped Davids in his climb.

"He's a good criminal investigator himself," praised Joseph A. Childs, Davids' immediate predecessor. "He likes to get out in the field. That's why he was named first head of the rackets squad and then put in command of the Detroit district."

Davids received his first citation for trailing a suspect who had shot and wounded a cab driver. Davids and another trooper broke in on the suspect at his Lansing home. The man, later convicted, surrendered although he had a cache of firearms in his room.

Davids had a knack of smelling out firebugs. Two citations came from this talent. One was for solving a rash of fires set in a housing project near Ypsilanti in 1944. The other was for proving in 1948 what appeared to be an accidental fire was arson.

Also in 1948 he received a citation for obtaining a confession in the slaying of an 8-year-old boy by a 15-year-old youth at St. Clair Shores.

Davids was appointed commissioner in 1955 by former Gov. George Romney when

COL. FREDRICK E. DAVIDS

Childs retired.

"That shows George Romney is a good judge of people. He had a great field to pick from, but he couldn't have made a better choice," said Maj. John Brown, State Police deputy director for general staff services.

A top aide said Davids probably is proudest of the law enforcement information set up under his administration.

Some 130 police agencies throughout the state are able to get information through the network within seconds on fugitives, suspects, missing people, stolen cars and other driver data.

Davids also swore in Michigan's first Negro state trooper and has carried on a campaign to enlist more men from among minority groups. He also enlisted the first two women troopers.

Davids has a blunt delivery and is known in police circles as "a cop's cop." He doesn't fit the stereotype of a policeman — if there is one. He could blend in equally as well in his conventional business suit at an Elks Club meeting or a convention of hardware salesmen.

As a hobby, Davids and his wife have purchased a centennial farm near their Plymouth home and gradually are restoring the historic landmark.

California Eases Ban On Gasoline Engines

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A senator took the edge off his bill to ban the gasoline engine from California highways Thursday by instead inserting exhaust emission standards so rigid no car on the road today could meet them.

The Assembly Transportation Committee accepted Democratic Sen. Nicholas C. Petrakis' amendments, but delayed a vote on the bill until it could hear from opposing witnesses.

Originally Petrakis' bill would have banned the sale after Jan. 1, 1975 of any motor vehicle powered by a reciprocating internal combustion engine. That outright ban was removed by his amendments, which substituted stricter auto emission standards.

The bill had cleared the Senate with surprising ease, but Petrakis said he could see that it would not get out of the Assembly committee in its original form.

California already has the toughest laws in the nation on auto exhaust emissions. The standards get progressively stiffer until 1974 models.

Petrakis said the standards he proposes are "so tough that no engine known today is capable of meeting them."

Rally On Wall Street Continuing

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged ahead in active trading early today as it continued the rally that carried it sharply higher Thursday.
The Dow Jones industrial average at 10:30 a.m. was up 8.08 at 823.55.
Gains led losses by better than 500 issues.
A number of large blocks moved in early trading. They include: American Telephone & Telegraph, 30,000 shares at 53, up 3/4; Atlantic Richfield, 10,100 shares at 106 1/2, up 1 1/2; Tenneco Corp., 23,000 shares at 25 1/2, up 1/2; Standard Oil (N.J.), 14,000 shares at 70 1/2, up 3/4; Xerox, 20,000 shares at 93 1/2, up 1/4; and Computer Sciences, 15,900 shares at 24 1/2, up 1/2.
Opening prices included:
City Investing, up 3/4 at 24 1/2; Gulf Oil, up 1/2 at 34 1/2; Kaiser Aluminum, up 1/2 at 30 on 10,500 shares; and Pan American World Airways, up 3/4 at 15 1/2 on 10,000 shares.
The market slashed but a sharp gain Thursday, with analysts attributing the rise partly to bargain hunting among issues which had fallen to a price attractive to traders during the market's long decline as well as to Senate approval of an extension of the income tax surcharge for six months.
The Dow Jones industrial average rose 11.80 to 815.47. The Associated Press 60-stock average gained 4.4 to 289.8.
Prices generally were higher on the American Stock Exchange.
Asamera Oil was up 5/8 at 24 1/2. Equify Funding Corp. gained 2 1/2 to 60 1/2. National General warrants (new) and Siboney Corp. gained fraction.
Four Seasons Nursing was off 3/4 at 54 1/2.

Coloma Float In Last Parade

Glad Festival Appearance Will Be Its Fourth

COLOMA—When the black plastic cover is taken off the Coloma float on Aug. 9, the creation of Lou Lodyga and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dilts, will be seen in its fourth and final appearance in the Coloma Gladiolus Festival parade.

The float was created for the Blossom festival parade last spring and has since appeared in the Miss Michigan pageant parade in Muskegon and the South Haven Centennial - Blueberry festival parade.

When the Miss Coloma blossom queen pageant was abandoned by the Coloma Chamber of Commerce, the Coloma Gladiolus Society took over the pageant, but no group volunteered to build the float. Lodyga and the Dilts offered their services because as Lodyga put it, "someone had to." Lodyga is a resident of St. Joseph.

With a small budget, the three borrowed many of the items needed for the float and built it in a barn owned by Mrs. Dilts parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hoshen. In addition to the borrowed items, Lodyga, who designed the float with the theme, "Cabaret," used some items he had discarded from other events. The result was a float which took the top award in the South Haven parade.

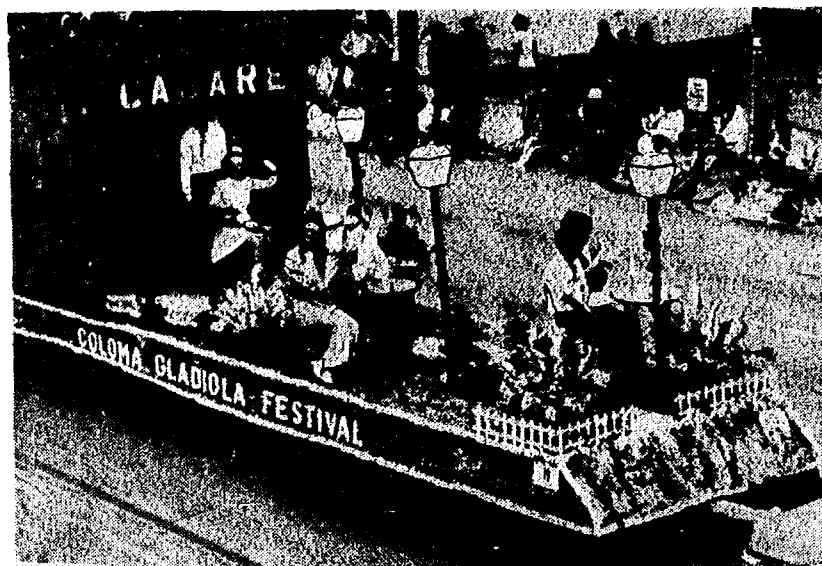

Following the float's first appearance, the three discovered, it would not fit inside the building in Coloma that was to house the float until its next appearance. They solved the problem by deflating the tires enough to allow the float to ease through the door of the building. The next problem, a leaking roof, was solved by shrouding the entire float in black plastic to protect it from water damage.

Even though the float was covered in between appearances, it still has to be readied for each parade. After the Gladiolus parade, the float will be dismantled.

The Dilts and Lodyga, who are all members of the Coloma Gladiolus Society, said the headaches have now become laughs, but it was quite an experience for inexperienced people.

Institute Sports Largest Carillon

FLINT (AP)—With the dedication of a $100,000 Dutch-built bell tower Thursday, the General Motors Institute in Flint now boasts the largest carillon of any college in the state. The 85-foot tower and its 47 bells, ranging in weight from 20 to 1,408 pounds, were paid for by alumni of the GMI.

FINAL APPEARANCE: The Coloma float created by Lou Lodyga and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dilts, will make its fourth and final appearance on Aug. 9 during the local Gladiolus festival parade. Featured on the float are Miss Coloma of 1969, Debbie Vollrath, and her court, Diane Williams and Dorothy Marucci. The float has made three appearances in the rain, and the creators are hoping for sunny skies on its last appearance.

Prisoner Is Beaten To Death

MARQUETTE (AP)—One prisoner at the Marquette Branch Prison was held in isolation today for allegedly slugging another to death today with a wooden kitchen paddle.

Deputy Warden William Louma said state police are investigating the assault.

The victim was William Ritchie, 24, of Kingsford, serving three to 10 years for breaking and entering. Being held in isolation is Gilbert Trice, 22, Detroit, serving seven to 15 years for armed robbery.

Louma said the two apparently quarreled. The deputy warden added that Trice took a five and one-half foot solid wooden spoon, used for stirring vats of food, from the kitchen and repeatedly slugged Ritchie over the head while the latter was sleeping.

Trice was disarmed by a guard who ran into the cell block when he heard the commotion. The victim died a few hours later at a Marquette hospital.

Driver Fined In Van Buren

PAW PAW — Jerry D. Smith, 21, Pocahontas, Ark., Thursday pleaded guilty in Seventh District court to charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicants and having no operator's license, in Paw Paw.

Judge Luther J. Daines, ordered Smith to pay a fine of $75 and costs of $78 on the first charge and a fine of $5 and $8 costs on the no operator's license charge.

If the fines are not paid, Smith must spend 30 days in the Van Buren county jail. He was arrested Wednesday by Van Buren county sheriff's deputies.

Mail Patrons Would Lose Says Postal Union Leader

An official of the Benton Harbor postal workers union predicted today that the mailing public will "pay through the nose" if a proposed corporation is created to run the nation's mail system.

George Althouse, president of Local 131, United Federation of Postal clerks, said in addition to the initial gifts to the corporation the public would also face costs of paying corporate profits.

The firm's directors, said Althouse, would use rate-fixing powers to "show a profit at whatever cost to the consumer. The bid for profit would be human, he commented in a prepared release.

Legislation to carry out the proposed corporation approach is now pending before Congress. One aim of the proposal is to erase the annual deficit now stemming from government operation of the postal system.

Althouse said, if approved, the transfer would be the "most gigantic giveaway of taxpayers' assets in the history of the United States."

"Billions of dollars in plants, facilities, vehicles and equipment will be handed over to the proposed corporation, Althouse said.

In addition, the union official said the legislation would permit the firm to borrow up to $10 billion. The government, he said, would not, however, stand behind the debt.

The general public through price of stamps would be underwriting the program primarily, Althouse said.

Things That Make Life Worth Living

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

Running down a rainy street hand in hand with someone you love ... The opening door of home after a long day at work ... Lying in bed at night and watching the strange patterns of light and dark made on the ceiling by cars passing outside ... Being patted awkwardly on the face by the fumbling fingers of a small child.

The feel of corduroy cloth and the gnarled bark of old oak trees ... The gleam of brass and old silver candlesticks ... Going on a picnic and coming back safe from a war ... Watching a brilliant summer lightning and thunder storm from a sheltered place ... Having someone else volunteer to do the dishes after a hearty meal.

Playing catch with a teenager and finding you're still able to hold on to the fast ones ... Entering any room where you know you'll be welcomed by someone you want to be welcome to ... Taking the last pot of the evening and leaving the game a winner ... Passing an annual physical examination that this year you feared you'd flunk for sure ... Paying an installment on a mortgage—just once—three days ahead of the due date.

Pigeons getting crumbs from pious old ladies on the steps of a cathedral ... Saucy squirrels seeking handouts in a public park ... The sound of running water and the sight of falling stars ... The historic ritual of scratching your initials with a tree branch on a page of fallen snow ... The wavering path of a breeze across a field of ripening wheat.

Poking around amid the half-forgotten treasures in the attic ... Coming across an old love letter and dropping everything to read it ... The stern, self-conscious look on yesterday's faces in the old family photograph album ... How odd will your own face look to the eyes that will gaze upon it some far tomorrow?

The taste of cold milk after a long hot hike ... Rowing a boat along in the dark toward a beckoning light ... Sudden golden sunrises and long red sunsets ... An invitation to the wedding of a girl you were fond of, but not fond enough to walk down the aisle with yourself ... The trail of moonlight shimmering on a calm sea, the sigh and sob of surf along a forlorn shore.

The consternation of a child upon finding a worm in its apple ... Getting a phone call saying that an ailing friend is on the mend ... Having a car dealer offer you $50 more for the old family bus than you thought you'd get ... Coping with a problem you thought couldn't be coped with ... Breaking out of the routine jail of life by going on a long-planned vacation.

The placid acquiescence of elderly faces, no longer afraid of death or time ... The smell of frying bacon ... The scent of a clover field on a dewy morning ... The uncurling grace of a cat rising and stretching herself ... The feel of clean sheets ... A friendly note from the boss saying he'd been watching your work lately and was glad to see that you were at last doing some of it. Also in the note: a pay hike.

Chopping kindling wood for a home hearth ... Giving a graduation present to a high school girl, and being told by her in tears that it was the very thing she had most hoped for ... The excited squealing of tenement children taking a street shower from a fire plug ... Awakening in a bedroll at midnight on a mountainside, surrounded by all the awesome glory of the universe, and talking your heart out to that lonesome stranger, God.
